

Christmas Over But Man's Troubles Stay

(Combined Wire Services)
Christmas, 1970, is over. It wasn't exactly what it should have been. But a rapidly approaching new year will give everybody a chance set things right with promises.
The Christian world celebrated the birth of Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace, with the all-too-familiar mixture of piety and disregard, love and hate, peace and war.
Near the place where Christ was born in Bethlehem, a hand grenade said to have been thrown by an Arab guerrilla exploded. Few pilgrims heard the explosion. More heard a girls choir from Texas sing in Manger Square: "Glory be to God on the highest and on earth peace to men of goodwill."

And nine American soldiers were killed and nine wounded in Vietnam Christmas Eve when a U.S. artillery shell smashed into an American post. The U.S. Military Command said the shell was misdirected. Two other Americans died when their helicopter was shot down 75 miles north of Saigon.
But not everything was bleak. There were some nice things. Mrs. Concepcion Ruiz, a divorcee, and her nine children celebrated Christmas in their four-bedroom home in Tucson, Ariz., remodeled from a tin-dirt-floor shack by Frank Drachman, a construction company executive, who charged Mrs. Ruiz nothing.

"You can say all you want about people not caring and about there being no Santa Claus," Mrs. Ruiz said. "But I know one divorced woman and nine kids who will argue the other way until they turn blue in the face."
There was good cheer even in Vietnam. Army Spec. 4 Robert P. Decker, 21, Green Bay, Wis., received a new car, a paid vacation, a color television and a $250 wardrobe when he won the 500-thousandth gift pack on the "Vietnam gift pack program."

"I'm overwhelmed," Decker said when comedian Bob Hope drew Decker's name.
Hope, meanwhile, was spending his seventh and perhaps final year of shows in South Vietnam on Christmas Day. "We all look forward to the day when we'll spend Christmas at home together," Hope told 20,000 GIs.
Then there were officials of Bayonne (N.J.) Hospital, first issuing an emergency appeal for a rare type blood for an ill teen-aged girl, then being forced to stop taking calls because to many people wanted to help; and the Jewish men in Milwaukee, Wis., who worked for Christmas Eve for Christians so the latter could be with their families.

Meanwhile, in Albuquerque, N.M., J. Vernon Harwell paid the air fare home on Christmas leave from Vietnam for a sailor he had never met and took him out for dinner because he knows how it feels to be lonely at Christmas.
Harwell offered to pay the $350 air fare for any serviceman from New Mexico who was eligible but couldn't afford to take advantage of the new Vietnam leave opportunity.
Navy Storekeeper 3. C. Tony Ray Davis, stationed at Cam

Ranh Bay, jumped at the chance. Davis, 25, originally from Carlsbad, was one of about 400 servicemen who left Saigon Christmas Day in chartered jetliners for the two-week holiday leave.
"I couldn't believe it at first. This is the best Christmas present I've ever had," Davis said on arrival Friday night in Albuquerque. He planned to go to Carlsbad today to visit friends, then to Port Lavaca, Tex., where his family now lives.
Harwell, whose son-in-law is in the Navy, said he and his family were going to Hawaii for the holidays.

"But we're going to give this kid a good time before we leave," he said. "We're going to take him out to the Albuquerque Country Club for dinner and give him some money to spend while he's home."
"I kind of know how those boys feel at Christmas because I spent three of them in the Pacific during World War II. It wasn't much fun."
Harwell, now a distributor for a peanut company, spent wartime yuletides with the 2nd Marines on Guadalcanal, Tarawa and Saipan.
Davis, who had been in Vietnam 4½ months, said he never will forget his benefactor.

Communist Truce Still in Effect

81 Enemy Violations in Cease-Fire

SAIGON (UPI) —The U.S. Command today reported 81 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese violations of the U.S. and South Vietnamese Christmas cease-fire. The Communists truce was still in effect.

The command also reported nine Americans were killed and nine wounded when a U.S. 105mm artillery shell hit an outpost in the northern sector of South Vietnam shortly before the Allied cease-fire.

The accident caused the heaviest U.S. casualties in a single ground incident since July. It occurred 11 miles southwest of Hue.

Military spokesmen said U.S. forces, South Vietnamese troops and other Allied units resumed combat operations at the 6 p.m. Christmas day expiration of the Allied cease-fire.

A 72-hour cease-fire declared by the Viet Cong was still in effect. It started 17 hours before the Allied truce and was scheduled to continue until 1 a.m. Sunday.

The U.S. Command said the Communist violations in the Allied truce period showed a decline from last year's 24-hour Christmas truce when 115 Communist-provoked incidents were reported.

American casualties of four wounded during the Allied cease-fire compared with three wounded last Christmas, official records showed. Spokesmen for the U.S. Command said one of the American wounded came Christmas Day when Communist groundfire knocked down an OH58 Kiowa observation helicopter 70 miles north of Saigon.

Two other Americans were wounded at mid-afternoon Christmas Day when they came under small arms fire while en route to a position of the 1st Brigade, 5th Division (mechanized), 12 miles south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ). The fourth GI wounded during the truce was hit in a clash in the central region of South Vietnam before dawn Christmas Day.

South Vietnamese officials said 17 government troops, police and civilians were killed, 53 wounded and one kidnaped by the Viet Cong during the truce. Communist losses were placed at 30 killed and one captured.

Communiques from Phnom Penh said Cambodian bombers pounded suspected North Vietnamese troop concentrations 18 miles east of Phnom Penh early today. The bombing rattled windows in the capital.

Lt. Col. Am Rong, the official Cambodian military spokesman, said villagers had given the Communist troop positions to the government. The air attacks were against North Vietnamese who earlier attacked government troops near Tuk-Khlang, 15 miles south of the capital.

According to the AP, meanwhile, a U.S. congressman said today that North Vietnamese officials had told him American prisoners of war are allowed to participate in sports and were given special privileges this Christmas season.

Rep. G. V. (Sonny) Montgomery, D-Miss., told a news conference that he met two days this week with high-ranking officials of the North Vietnamese embassy in Vientiane, Laos, including the charge d'affaires.

The congressman talked with newsmen as he wound up a week-long tour of Southeast Asia.

Montgomery, a member of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, said he went to Vientiane to meet with the North Vietnamese "as a private citizen" but that they accepted him as a government official. He did not say whether he will make an official report on his trip when he gets back to Washington.

World Jewry Protests Soviet Verdict

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israel demonstrated against the sentences in Washington, New York, London, Rome and Tel Aviv.

Prime Minister Golda Meir, dressed in mourning black, told an emergency session of the Knesset (parliament) "There is only a short time left, a few days, before the execution of the judgment."

"Let not this short time be wasted. Let not world public opinion allow this atrocity to be perpetrated."

The Leningrad court sentenced two men to death by firing squad and nine others to long prison terms Thursday for allegedly plotting to hijack a Soviet plane and take their families to Israel. Most of the defendants were Jews.

The Knesset adopted by unanimous standing acclamation a resolution expressing "shock, anxiety and protesting of the brutal and murderous sentences". It appealed to parliaments, governments, religious and intellectual leaders to speak out for Soviet Jewry.

Ten thousand Israelis demonstrated outside the Finnish Embassy in Tel Aviv, which represents Soviet interests in Israel. They chanted "Kremlin murderers" and "Let my people go" and burned a Soviet flag that had been daubed with a Nazi swastika.

Hundreds of police, with the help of steel riot fences, kept the demonstrators from entering the embassy grounds.

King Hussein's army and Palestinian guerrillas battle fiercely for second straight day . . . Story Page 3.

In Washington, 250 Jews burned a makeshift Russian flag near the Soviet Embassy. Seven persons were arrested in a demonstration outside the Soviet Mission to the United Nations in New York Thursday night.

The five district attorneys of New York City sent a message to the chief prosecutor in Leningrad expressing "grave concern" over the trial and asking permission to attend the trial of 25 other persons, mostly Jews, still awaiting trial in connection with the alleged hijack plot.

In London, Dr. Immanuel Jakobits, the chief rabbi in Britain, called on Pope Paul VI to intercede for annulment of the death sentences. A hundred Jews demonstrated in front of the Soviet Embassy. Britain's small Communist party appealed to the Soviets to rescind the death sentences and said "many friends of the Soviet Union will be gravely concerned."

The French Communist party newspaper in Paris said it did not understand why death sentences were imposed for an unsuccessful hijacking and hoped they would not be carried out.

In Rome, a group held a silent demonstration outside the Vatican while the Pope was delivering his Christmas message to the world.

'LET MY PEOPLE GO'—Demonstrators burn a Soviet hammer and sickle flag daubed with a black swastika outside the Finnish Embassy which represents Soviet interests in Israel on Christmas Day. Roaring chants of "Kremlin murderers" and "Let my people go," a crowd of 10,000 Tel Aviv Jews gathered to demand that the Soviet Union annul the death sentences imposed in the Leningrad hijacking trial and let Soviet Jews emigrate to Israel. ## Ulster Man Thruway Victim, Sports Car Slammed By Truck

By JON POWERS

HARRIMAN Friday near milepost 46, one man was killed instantly Christmas night when his sports car was slammed into by a tractor-trailer milk tanker on the New York State Thruway north of the Harriman interchange.

Killed was Walter Holland, 28, of RD 6, Fox 70, Town of Ulster. He was the only occupant in the auto.

There were no traffic fatalities reported on Ulster County highways during the first two days of the Christmas holiday of the period. National Safety Council officials now believe that the holiday death toll would not reach the anticipated 650 highway victims, projected prior to the weekend.

The fatal accident involving Monroe

Holland occurred at 10:05 p.m. crash, troopers said, and no citations were issued.

Two persons were killed in separate Putnam County accidents during the holiday period.

State Police from Newburgh said that Holland had parked his disabled sports car on the shoulder of the highway and that he was reportedly working with the engine compartment. The milk tanker truck, operated by Edison Henry, 48, of Route 55, Frankfort, N.Y., was traveling northbound when it left the highway and ran over the top of the car.

Holland was pronounced dead at the scene by Coroner's physician Dr. Grover Sprague of Harriman. The body was then transferred to the Seamon and Quackenbush Funeral Home in Henry was not injured in the period. Theodore Lund, 79, of Cold Spring was struck and persons died in Christmas Eve holiday traffic mishaps.

A spokesman for the National Highway Traffic Safety Council said, "We hope that the crackdown by police on drunk drivers will keep the Hospital of injuries she re-drinking driver off the road. We weaved in an auto accident because there are so many variables, but we do know that during the holiday period will be too high.

The three-day 78-hour snow and ice today, and police weekend began at 6 p.m. authorities advised caution for Thursday and will end at drivers.

Ministry Career Conference

BISHOP LLOYD C. WICKES

College students from 929 United Methodist churches in the Troy and New York conferences who are interested in the ministry as a career will gather Dec. 29-30 at Graymoor in Garrison, for the annual convocation on the Parish Ministry convened by Bishop Lloyd C. Wickes.

Bishop Richard C. Raines, formerly of the Indiana Area and now retired, will be the keynote speaker on My Life Style in the Ministry and Bishop Wickes will give a summation at the closing session.

Questions the prospective seminarians will be encouraged to discuss are listed as follows: What kind of person must I be? Will I have to fit into the establishment mold? Will I be free to express my opinions on social problems? What preparatory education must I have? Will the conduct of my family be restricted? What salary can I expect? Will I be serving an institution that is on its way out? What do I have to believe?

The Rev. Ralph E. Hughes of Greenwich, Conn., is convocation chairman assisted by the Rev. Leonard Bass of Mechanicville, secretary; the Rev. William Reed of Port Washington, and the Rev. William A. Groshans of Troy.

The Rev. David C. Houston of Beact, and the Rev. Arthur R. Melius of Hudson Falls, will be the discussion leaders. The Rev. Clinton Lunt of Cold Spring Harbor is serving as registrar.

City Man Cited With Shotgun
KINGSTON
John Zehnick, 29, of Rondout Gardens, was arrested by city police Friday afternoon and charged with two counts of first degree reckless endangerment after he allegedly pointed a loaded shotgun at both his wife and two patrolmen.

Upon entering his home, police found Zehnick pointing a loaded shotgun at his wife. The man then allegedly pointed the weapon at the patrolmen. He was subdued after a brief struggle, police reported. Zehnick is scheduled for a City Court appearance today to answer the two charges.

Third Jump Bail, Senator Charges

NEW YORK (UPI) — One-third of the total city criminal bench warrants are outstanding for public scandal," Goodman cited several factors which he said have resulted in "the collapse of the bail system."

Sen. Roy M. Goodman, R-Manhattan, said Thursday that the unusually high number of City's Criminal and State Supreme Courts, he said.

Goodman said the figures are based on information supplied by court sources and Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan.

Calling the situation "a major public scandal," Goodman cited several factors which he said have resulted in "the collapse of the bail system."

He said only six officers are assigned to the police warrant squad to track down defendants in misdemeanor Criminal Court cases who jump bail. He contended that in Supreme Court cases, covering felonies, the squad is not assigned, with the responsibility for apprehension given to the detective who investigated the case. The detective rarely seeks out the bail jumper, Goodman said.

In addition, Goodman charged there is no central control of the issuance of bench warrants, there is no record of warrants issued, the Supreme Court frequently fails to notify the borough police squad when a bench warrant is issued, and the police Bureau of Criminal Identification which keeps records, is not notified of bail jumping so the offense can be added to an individual's record.

Wilfred N. Horne, deputy police commissioner for press relations, challenged some of Goodman's assertions. Horne said 92 policemen — not 6 as Goodman said—are assigned to the warrant squad. He also said the warrant squad is assigned to Supreme Court cases as well as Criminal Court cases and the Bureau of Criminal Identification is notified by the warrant squad when an individual jumps bail.

He said the police department is undertaking a study to improve the present system of finding bail jumpers.

The revocations resulted from hearings on charges that the stations had failed to comply with inspection regulations. The charges stemmed from periodic state police surveys of inspection procedures or from public complaints.

There were no other Mid-Hudson Valley stations affected.

Cleveland, Cincinnati Teams File Protests

By United Press International
Trouble seems to follow the Cleveland Cavaliers wherever they go.

The Cavaliers, one of the National Basketball Association's three new expansion clubs, have been having problems. Namely, they're averaging a victory a month.

Cleveland dropped a 117-100 decision to the Cincinnati Royals Christmas night but before it was all over, both the Cavaliers and Royals had lodged protests.

The incident provoking the protests came in the third period when Cleveland rookie John Johnson hit for a basket as the 24-second horn sounded. Cincinnati Coach Bob Cousy argued that the horn signaling a violation had sounded before Johnson shot, but officials disagreed and allowed the goal. Bill Fitch, the Cleveland coach, then notified the referees that his team was playing under protest since, as he claimed, the Cincinnati club had not provided the proper equipment for a National Basketball Association game and was using an improper horn.

The final decision is up to the league but for the time being, the Cavaliers have absorbed their 37th loss in 40 games. The three victories have come at the expense of fellow expansionists Portland and Buffalo and Cleveland has yet to beat an established club — after three months of play.

Tom Van Arsdale and Norm Van Lier had 23 points each and led the Royals while Dave Johnson shot, but officials Sorenson's 20 led the Cavaliers.

In other NBA action Friday night, Los Angeles beat Boston 123-113, Philadelphia downed Detroit, Greer's two foul shots stopped Chicago 128-112, New York whipped Buffalo 115-102 and Phoenix defeated Atlanta 127-115.

Jerry West, held to 10 points in the first half, poured in 22 more in the second to carry the Lakers over the Celtics. West, who hit only four of 15 shots in the first half, connected on nine of 11 in the second. Happy Hairston had a season high 29 for the Lakers and Wilt Chamberlain, who didn't start the game, had 24 for Los Angeles.

Chamberlain was benched by Lakers' Coach Joe Mullaney for missing practice Thursday.

Hal Greer had 28 points including a pair of free throws to snap a tie with 1:39 remaining as the 76ers beat Detroit. Greer's two foul shots snapped a 95-95 tie and put Philadelphia ahead to stay. Dave Bing led Detroit with 28 points.

Gus Johnson sparked a 10-point streak with four minutes remaining that enabled the Bullets to hold off Chicago. The Bullets had a 27-point lead whittled down to nine with four minutes left before Johnson boosted Baltimore ahead. Chicago wasted a 42-point effort by Bob Love while Earl Monroe's 21 points led the Bullets.

Dick Barnett and Willis Reed combined for 44 points as New York beat Buffalo and Connie Hawkins, scoreless in the first half, had 20 points in the second half as the Suns beat Atlanta.

South Fumbles Away Shrine Tilt

MIAMI (UPI)—The South lost the ball eight times on pass interceptions and fumbles, gave statistics with 249 yards on 15 the North two touchdowns, an of 26 throws—but he also threw a field goal and cost itself four of the interceptions and scoring chances, and that was the story of the 25th annual Shrine All-Star game.

The final score was 28-7 and the North team only earned one of its touchdowns and a field goal.

A sparse crowd of 15,402 witnessed the contest Christmas night in the Orange Bowl for the first time since 1954, but a national television audience made the game a success for the Shrine's crippled children hospitals.

The South's Charlie Richards led the passing game with 249 yards on 15 of 26 throws—but he also threw a field goal and cost itself four of the interceptions and scoring chances, and that was the story of the 25th annual Shrine All-Star game.

The final score was 28-7 and the North team only earned one of its touchdowns and a field goal.

A sparse crowd of 15,402 witnessed the contest Christmas night in the Orange Bowl for the first time since 1954, but a national television audience made the game a success for the Shrine's crippled children hospitals.

The North established its supremacy quickly, with John Riggins of Kansas and Sam

Scarber of New Mexico plunging and Kansas State's Lynn Dickey—the Big Eight Conference all-time passing leader—throwing on a 69-yard drive in the opening minutes that led to the 27-yard field goal of George Jakowenko of Syracuse.

Less than a minute later the North cashed in on the first of its breaks—an interception by Harold Phillips of Michigan State of a Richards' pass—by sending Scarber into the end zone on a three-yard plunge.

In the second quarter, North got three more points on a 32-yard field goal by Jakowenko that followed an interception by Randy Cooper of Purdue of a Lindsey pass in South territory.

Dickey, the North's most valuable player, drove his team 53 yards the third quarter and sent Riggins into the end zone on a 13-yard pitchout and then threw to him for a two-point conversion that put the North ahead 21-0.

Looking his best of the night, Richards brought the South back 70 yards in three plays.

The last 47 yards on the touchdown connection to Rocky Thompson of West Texas State.

But Richards' fortunes turned sour again in the fourth quarter when he fumbled on the North's one-yard line and Richard Kokosky of Syracuse recovered.

and minutes later threw another interception picked off by Clarence Scott of Kansas State. This led to the final North score, an eight-yard plunge by Riggins.

Jakowenko kicked two conversions for the North and Jay McCoy of Memphis State kicked the only one for the South.

HE'S ALL BETTER NOW!—Back in the air again after nine days in bed with the flu, Knicks' captain Willis Reed (19) is unable to prevent Braves' center Bob Kauffman (44) from putting in two points in first-half play at Madison Square Garden yesterday. Kauffman had a good Christmas with 28 points, but the Knicks behind Reed's 20 points won the game with a 115-102 victory. (UPI)

Football Playoffs Begin Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four National Football League teams spent a peaceful afternoon today, lounging in front of television sets to watch four others bang heads as the conference playoffs got underway.

But the resting ends Sunday for the Miami Dolphins and Oakland Raiders, set to clash in an American Conference showdown on the West Coast, and the Minnesota Vikings and San Francisco 49ers, who'll be going against each other in a National Conference game at Minneapolis-St. Paul.

In today's games, Cincinnati played at Baltimore and Detroit was at Dallas as the NFL's Super Bowl countdown began.

Conference championship games are scheduled for Jan. 3 with the winners advancing to the Jan. 17 Super Bowl at Miami.

The Dolphins, enjoying their first taste of post-season competition, would like nothing better than to be the host team for Jan. 17 in Miami. But to accomplish that, Miami will have to get past Oakland and its late-game lightning.

The Raiders strung together a streak of hairbreadth finishes to capture the Western Division crown, most of them accomplished with the aging but remarkably accurate toe of George Blanda in the middle of the heroics.

But the Dolphins figure they have a kicking match for Blanda in stumpish Gary Yepremian, the 5-foot-8 native of Cyprus who kicked 22 field goals this season and set a Miami club record with 97 points.

Larry Csonka, No. 2 rusher in the American Conference, gives Miami a power runner to balance the passing of quarterback Bob Griese. Csonka gained 874 yards—13 more than Oakland's Hewitt Dixon, who handles the bulk of the Raider ground game when Darley Lamonica isn't throwing.

Frigid weather—a normal climate for this time of year—was expected in Minnesota for the Vikings' clash with San Francisco.

The 49ers have the top quarterback in the National Conference in veteran John Brodie whose 24 touchdown passes were the best total in the NFL.

Brodie's top receiver is Gene Washington, whose 53 catches were fourth best in pro football this season. Ironically, the Vikings No. 1 receiver is also Minnesota's Washington had 44 receptions, most of them from quarterback Gary Cuozzo.

Cuozzo, who inherited the Vikings quarterback job from Joe Kapp, is nursing a sprained ankle but is expected to be ready for San Francisco.

This game matches the NFL's No. 1 offensive team—San Francisco—against Minnesota's top-ranked defense. That's like having the immovable object against the irresistible force.

Gamecocks Tournery Favorite

NEW YORK (UPI)—Afternoon and evening doubleheaders featuring three of the top 11 teams in the country kick off the 19th annual Holiday Festival basketball tournament today at Madison Square Garden.

Second ranked South Carolina, unbeaten in five games this season and the pre-tourney favorite, faces Cornell in the opener of the afternoon twin-bill followed by Manhattan against Providence.

In the evening, ninth ranked St. John's (N.Y.) takes on Holy Cross and 11th ranked Western Kentucky, fresh from a victory over third ranked Jacksonville, meets St. Peter's (N.J.).

The semi-finals will be played Monday night, Dec. 28, with the finals set for Wednesday night. There will also be a consolation doubleheader on Monday afternoon.

South Carolina, sparked by guard John Roche, twice named the Atlantic Coast Conference's Player of the Year, should have little trouble disposing of Cornell, the only club in the eight team tourney with a losing record.

"We are an explosive team," said South Carolina coach Frank McGuire. "This is one of the best teams I've ever coached," said the man who coached North Carolina to the NCAA championship in 1957.

Four of the Gamecocks' starting five were recruited from the New York area and McGuire was quick to point out, "the big city won't scare these boys. The only thing that might hurt us is if they start looking at their relatives in the stands. But I hope that doesn't happen and I don't think it will."

St. John's, winner of the Vanderbilt Invitational last weekend, was rolling along with a 6-0 record until the Redmen were upset by Boston College last Tuesday night. They are led by sophomore Mel Davis, voted the most valuable player in the Vanderbilt Invitational.

Jim McDaniels, a seven-footer who scored 46 points for Western Kentucky in its win over Jacksonville, sparks the Hilltoppers, who sport a 6-0 record.

Johnny Oldham, who coaches Western Kentucky, says he expects a tough game from St. Peter's, a team which has averaged 106 points a game but has given up just as many. The Peacocks lost to Jacksonville earlier in the season 152-106 and figure to be in for a hard time against the Hilltoppers.

Calif. Oks Butazolidin

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — A number of horses may be drugged when they help open Santa Anita's 34th season of thoroughbred racing today.

And it will be legal because the day coincides with effective-ness of California horse racing board Rules 1887 and 1888.

California is the third and largest state to permit controlled use of Butazolidin, the same drug that caused the Kentucky Derby uproar of 1968, by parimutuel racing.

Butazolidin, described as neither a stimulant nor a depressant, has been used with success in Colorado and Nebraska racing.

Dr. Alan H. Edmondson, official track veterinarian at Santa Anita, refers to Butazolidin as "a super aspirin" which "simply eases various types of arthritic aches and pains."

"There have been other more dangerous and expensive medications in use before now."

Edmondson said probably more than 50 per cent of the horses will use the drug at first.

"But I think the initial enthusiasm for usage ... will cool down in a short time. Eventually, I think about one-third of the horses will be using Butazolidin."

Horses trained with Butazolidin in the past but were not allowed to race while under treatment. Edmondson said the new program will be better because "consistency of usage will be carefully controlled. Horses cannot run hot and cold."

Names of horses given Butazolidin treatment will not be made public, he said, but "there will be a strict chain of responsibility."

The trainer must register a Butazolidin horse and certify he is raceably sound before he is allowed to use the drug. The veterinarian who treats the stable must see that the drug is administered at the proper time and in the proper amount.

"If a horse does not show the proper amount of Butazolidin in his post-race test, the trainer will be subject to penalties just as if a drug showed when it was not supposed to be used."

Lillian Board Close to Death

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — Lillian Board, the British Olympic athletic star stricken with intestinal cancer, lay close to death today following a brain hemorrhage.

Doctors at Munich's University Hospital, where the 22-year-old Olympic silver medalist arrived early last week, said she still was in very critical condition.

They said her parents, sister Irene, and boy friend David Emery, a 24-year-old journalist, were at her bedside.

A doctor at the hospital said Friday night Miss Board was in a coma for the second time during the day. "She has lost consciousness," he said.

A short time earlier, Emery, who had just returned to his hotel for a few minutes before rushing back to the hospital, said of Miss Board's condition, "she is bleeding in the brain. Things look very, very bad."

He said she had lapsed into a coma earlier that day but came out of it during the morning.

The cause of the bleeding, which appeared to have started Christmas Eve, was not known. It could go back. But if it continues there is little hope," he said. The hospital is doing all it can for her with drugs.

A communique from the hospital during the afternoon said "the condition of the patient worsened on Christmas Eve in a manner that gives rise to considerable concern."

But neither the communique nor officials at the hospital gave any details of the new complications reported by Emery. Hospital spokesmen have said repeatedly Miss Board's parents have asked them not to publish any details or make any announcements. The communique was an exception.

Miss Board was rushed to the Munich hospital from the Ringberg Cancer Clinic run by Dr. Josef Issels. She was operated on last Wednesday for a blockage in her small intestine, an operation described as "minor" at the time.

The young athlete, dubbed Britain's "Golden Girl," went to Issels' clinic early in November after British doctors told her they could hold out no hope for her.

Issels claims to have cured dozens of cancer sufferers with his "natural" treatment of the illness, mainly through exercise and strict dieting. However, he has many critics in West Germany's "orthodox" medical circles who dispute his methods.

Jones Boys Star Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Jones boys are two of a kind ... and that's two too many for the Utah Stars.

Steve Jones hit two crucial baskets among his 25 points and Jimmy Jones pitched in 24 to pace the Memphis Pros to a 107-102 American Basketball Association victory over the Stars Friday night.

Steve Jones' two baskets in the last two minutes gave the Pros a six-point cushion at 101-95 and nailed down the game. Elsewhere in the ABA, Virginia smashed Texas 145-131 and Pittsburgh clouted Carolina 136-121.

In the National Basketball Association, it was Phoenix 127, Atlanta 115; New York 115, Buffalo 102; Cincinnati 117, Cleveland 100; Baltimore 128, Chicago 112; Philadelphia 105, Detroit 100 and Los Angeles 123, Boston 113.

Zelmo Beaty, who scored 32 points, led Memphis to an early 10-point lead at 18-8, but the Stars rallied behind the Jones boys to tie it at 49 at the half.

The lead changed hands several times before Steve Jones put the game out of reach.

Charlie Scott scored 29 points and Jim Eakins hit for 22 and hauled in 19 rebounds to lead Virginia's runaway triumph that boosted the Squires' Eastern Division lead over Kentucky to a full game.

Manny Leaks had 22 points and Ron Boone 19 to pace the Chaps.

John Brisker scored 39 points to lead Pittsburgh's success. The Condors went ahead 11-10 early in the first period on Stew Johnson's jump shot and never trailed.

Bob Varga scored 41 points for Carolina.

The biologists and the scientists in the State Conservation Department are busy checking all pertinent data with respect to the highly controversial 1970 deer hunting season.

Unless the poobahs are incredibly naive, they know the statewide repercussions against the doe season is going to be something else again this time around.

Those stentorian protests generally centered around the Adirondack sectors mushroomed rapidly after the close of the 1970 season. They are now vocal and voluble.

THE SUBJECT CAME UP, naturally, at the December meeting of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County at Gardiner, but, as one observer put it, "there were so many people talking on the subject that no definitive policy emerged from the meeting. But don't be fooled, the Federation will have something to say about the subject in some detail later on."

The party permit situation is also to be given a thorough airing. The nimrods are on the march en masse and when they do the biologists, who have brushed aside criticism in recent years, may be forced to listen this time.

Federation observers were almost unanimous on one point—hunters saw fewer deer than ever before this time around. They blame it on over-kill of the doe population. One hunter who has gotten his share of bucks in the Shokan area in the past said it wasn't that way this year. "I've been hunting that spot for years," he said. "I always saw plenty of deer. This time I hardly saw any."

WORD FROM SULLIVAN county is that nimrods in that area are up in arms over any further extension of party permits. They're against it, period. Sullivan County is one of the most productive deer sectors in New York State. Any volume of dissent from the Borscht Belt would profoundly influence State Conservation Department plans for the 1971 season. Or would it?

Meanwhile, it will be some weeks before the Department comes up with final figures on the 1970 kill. There always seems to be an inordinate delay between the end of the season and the release of the kill figures, but the Department has always insisted that that much time is needed in order to give the hunters a clear picture of what happened.

GRANT DECKER, The Hunter for the Ulster County Townsman, had some strong words about the unhappy '70 season in his final wrapup. "We had our luck in many of the upper areas," he wrote, "and saw some good results. But, we also had the experience of seeing too many fawns and button bucks and in some instances it really sickened a person to see how 'gun happy' a great many of these so-called 'sportsmen' really are."

"Of course," he added, "many of these were folks who, perhaps, had spent quite a bit of money, time and travel to arrive at any given point in deer country and were determined to take home something to show for their efforts. But one thing we cannot seem to understand is where all these 'permits' for antlerless deer come from. I understand that in some areas the ratio of doe kills over bucks was 8 to 1. I think the final figures will verify this statement."

JOE NERONE, a veteran Kingston nimrod, led the Ulster County Division of the annual Ralph's Sports Center Deer contest at Germantown. Nerone earned $65 for his 10-pointer which sported a 16-inch rack.

The biggest field of hunters in the short history of Ralph's contest found three 10-pointers in three counties winning the top prizes.

Ralph Del Pozzo, operates the Germantown center on Route 9-G, claims that his contest is now the largest in the East, with upwards of 500 hunters entering every year.

The biggest rack in the contest took the $1,000 Columbia County prize. Wendell Hunt of Hillsdale's ten-pointer measured 20½ inches.

In Dutchess County, Alfred Shufelt of Dover Plains won $75 for his ten-pointer; and the Greene County winner was a woman—Marlene Wase of Catskill, who bagged an eight-point buck.

A Stone Ridge man, Don Beesmer, took the $50 prize for the smallest legal buck. His trophy was three inches long.

The final prize, for the first deer brought to Ralph's for inspection opening day, went to Vince Giardino of Cementon. He left with $50.

Tourney Time for UCCC and NPS

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON Two local colleges go the tournament route this week while two former Kingston High School stars travel in the same direction with their respective institutions.

Ulster County Community College Senators are set to participate in the Capital City Christmas Classic in Troy on Tuesday and Wednesday. New Paltz State College moves to Norfolk, Va., for that city's holiday event Monday and Tuesday; and Albany State with Werner Kollin and Siena College with Andy Murphy are involved in the Capital District Tournament, also Monday and Tuesday.

The Senators have been listed as pre-tourney favorites in the Troy showdown. UCCC tackles Fulton-Montgomery Community College in the opening round with Albany Junior College playing Hudson Valley Community in the night cap.

Coach Mike Perry's Stone Ridge five enters the two-day get-together with a 6-4 record and a two-game losing string. Their opponents are 5-1, the loss coming at the hands of Delhi Tech, a team which UCCC has beaten.

Ulster will be relying on Glenn Berry and Cliff Weeks to do the bulk of the scoring but defense is what Coach Perry will be concentrating on to offset anything Fulton-Montgomery has in mind.

And a good defense it will have to be for the Raiders have averaged 94 points a game despite being held to just 57 in the Delhi defeat. Tom Hoose is the big man for Fulton-Montgomery, collecting 14.6 points a game.

"The big difference in the two teams would seem to be the type of competition they have played thus far in the season," says Jay Silverman, director of public information at Hudson Valley Community, the host school. "While Ulster has been playing some of the top two-year and freshman teams from the New York City area, F-MCC has had it a bit easier as far as scheduling is concerned. Thus, it appears that Ulster is the team to beat in this match up."

Albany Junior College is the favorite in the other game since, among other reasons, Hudson Valley is the only five with a losing record.

Latest figures show that Ulster is third in its conference, the Mid-Hudson. Dutchess is 3-0. Westchester 3-1, and Ulster is 2-1. Berry sits third in the scoring race with an 18.3 norm behind Chuck Haubner of Rockland (22.7) and Dennis Motley of Dutchess (21.3). The Senator captain is number two in rebounds having grabbed 16.0 to the Westco's John Iasillo's 16.8.

New Paltz State has no where to go but up as it heads South for the Norfolk games. Winless in six so far, the Hawks will face Randolph-Macon of Virginia in the first round. Coach Si Pesavento doesn't know much about their opponents other than "they're very good."

Norfolk Naval Base meets Philbant Naval Base in the other tournament game. Philbant has already taken the measure of Cortland State this season. Bruce Kreutzer and Don Valdez will try to lead the Hawks out of the wilderness. New Paltz works out today for the first time in a week then leaves tomorrow.

Union College is the team to beat in the Capital City tourney. The Dutchmen (4-1) meet Murphy's Siena team (1-6) in the first game followed by Albany State (2-2) with Kollin against RPI (3-4).

At last count, Murphy had been averaging about seven points a game for the youthful Siena team which is headed by another soph, Fred Shear.

Union recently set a school scoring record in amassing 115 points against Loyola of Montreal.

Albany State has picked up two wins after dropping its first deuce. Kollen, at 6'4" the biggest man on the squad, has been alternating with Alan Reid at a forward spot for the Great Danes.

RPI is trying to comeback after the surprise loss of All-East performer Randy Brown who left school. The Engineers have the incentive since Albany upset them in last year's final.

School Trends—Inconclusive

By IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON While area high school players and coaches take their Christmas break from competition, 2-0 on the strength of good rebounding and balanced scoring, Dan Smith has put in 37 points in UCAL play to lead the team.

Rondout Valley, defending champs in the league, just got by New Paltz and needed a strong second half to overcome Highland. Bill Joyner is averaging 18 per game for the Ganders. Rondout Valley, but both have played only twice as compared to the three and four games in which all other fives, with the exception of last place Walkkill, have battled.

The Indians of Boiceville are 2-0 on the strength of good rebounding and balanced scoring.

Dan Smith has put in 37 points in UCAL play to lead the team. Rondout Valley, defending champs in the league, just got by New Paltz and needed a strong second half to overcome Highland. Bill Joyner is averaging 18 per game for the Ganders. Rondout Valley, but both have played only twice as compared to the three and four games in

of the way if Rich Gerentine continues at the pace he's set in the early going. With one 30 point game already in the books, Gerentine is scoring at a 21 point clip.

If any other team has a shot at the title it's Highland. 2-2. The Big Blue have in Ron Monroe the league's top shooter with 23 point average. His brother Perry is a rebounding demon and a 13 point scorer.

Poughkeepsie sits atop the Dutchess County Scholastic League with a 3-0 record, one game better than Arlington, Roosevelt, and Our Lady of Lourdes. The Pioneers, however, have beaten Kingston and that may be enough to prove that they'll be the class of the DCSL.

Millbrook, Cardinal Farley, and Pine Plains are off to fast starts in the DCSL. Bi-Valley loop with Millbrook the speediest, 4-0. It's still too early to find any trend in this loop.

Probably the most interesting race will be the one between Newburgh and Kingston in the DUSO League. Newburgh is, of course, the overwhelming favorite but staunch Maroon backers think Kingston has a chance to surprise the Gold-

Mike Rienzo's Maroons have just the one setback against Poughkeepsie in five non-league games and they settled the championship with an overwhelming win over John A. Coleman.

The Statesmen, playing their final year as an independent before entering the UCAL in '71, are 2-3 to date with the big win being an overtime upset versus Onteora. Coach Bill DuBois is looking to find someone to take the pressure off of Don Hastings so that the captain is free to shoot. So far Steve Peruso, John Machione, John Geuss, and Bill Krajci have shown flashes but no continued brilliance.

One other area team making its mark is Ellenville. The Elites lead the Village DUSO race and are 5-0 overall.

Next action on the schedule is Dec. 29 when Kingston goes to John Jay. That will be it until Jan. 5 when the schedule returns to full life. Highlights that night will be Kingston-Poughkeepsie, Rondout-Saugerties, and Coleman-Ellenville.

Just Another Night to Esposito

By United Press International Christmas night was like any other night for Phil Esposito.

The 28-year-old center for the Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins just kept scoring goals at a record clip.

Esposito notched two more tallies Friday night in Boston's 8-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Penguins and now has 32 goals in 34 games this season. With 42 games remaining on the schedule, Esposito seems assured of breaking Bobby Hull's one season record of 58 goals set during the '70-game season of 1968-69.

Esposito also picked up an assist against the Penguins to run his league-leading point total to 68, easily within reach of his own one season record of 126 set two years ago if he continues at his present pace of two points a game.

Boston's win over Pittsburgh was the Bruins' 10th straight triumph, only four short of the National Hockey League record set by the Boston team of 1929-30. The victory also enabled Boston to take over sole possession of first place in the Eastern Division, two points ahead of the idle New York Rangers.

The only other game Friday night saw the Minnesota North Stars snap their five game losing streak with a 6-3 victory over Toronto as the Maple Leafs had their winning streak end at seven games.

Boston spotted Pittsburgh a 2-0 lead on early goals by veterans Andy Bathgate and Dean Prentice but the Bruins had a 3-2 edge by the end of the first session, thanks to Esposito's two goals and one by Johnny Bucyk.

Bucyk tallied his second goal of the game and 19th of the season in the second period and teammates Don Marcotte and Ken Hodge also scored in the middle session to put the game out of reach and send Pittsburgh goalie Les Binkley to the bench. Binkley was replaced in the nets by Al Smith who allowed Boston goals by Wayne Cashman and Marcotte in the final period.

Danny Grant scored twice for Minnesota, his second goal snapping a 3-3 tie five minutes into the third period. The win possession of third place in the West, two points ahead of Philadelphia.

Norm Ullman tallied two goals for Toronto including the 40th of his 16 season NHL career.

Pro Coach: Just How Big a Wheel?

Buck Shaw

Norm Van Brocklin

Alex Webster

George Allen

By MURRAY OLDERMAN NEW YORK (NEA)—Coaching genius has suddenly become a dreg in professional football. Who needs it when you've got the example of Alex (Big Red) Webster?

The New York Giants made it to the last week of the regular season in first place on a large dosage of Big Red's charisma and a maximum of cerebral exercise.

Let's not knock Alex as a brain. He's bright enough to enter his own disclaimer as a resident genius of football strategy. And he's certainly orthodox in his approach to coaching.

The professional has become noted for its 16mm eyeball burners such as George Allen of the Rams and its theoreticians such as Blanton Collier of the Browns and Tom Landry of the Cowboys. To them, overtime is eight hours of sleep a night.

Alex, however, spent this season commuting by car more than 1,000 miles a week between his home at the New Jersey seashore and Yankee Stadium (76 miles each way). His chief offensive coach, Ken Kavanagh, goes even farther daily—from and to Philadelphia. And when Big Red was in town, it wasn't always behind a film projector. His amiable face could be seen on the Manuche's P. J. Clark relaxation circuit in mid-Manhattan.

Obviously, the team didn't suffer. It had Francis Asbury Tarkenton to supply the missing link between the spiritual motivation provided by Coach Webster and the assorted muscles of Giants hungry again after seven years of losing football.

The situation was tersely with Big Red and got a promise reminiscent of 1960, when Buck that he'd be left alone to run Shaw also ran a laissez-faire his own show.

The results were dynamic as the Giants swept to nine victories in their next 10 games. But the most startling aspect of Tarkenton's free rein was that the Giants displayed the most complicated offense in pro football.

Coach Hank Stram puffed out his chest after the Super Bowl triumph of the Kansas City Chiefs last January and claimed the 1970's as the era of multiple formations.

"The Chiefs as a team running a complicated offense are a myth," says Tarkenton. "They go from the 'I' to the 'T' to the 'Y' to the 'Z' to the 'X' to the 'O' to the 'U' to the 'V' to the 'W' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to the 'U' to the 'T' to the 'S' to the 'R' to the 'Q' to the 'P' to the 'O' to the 'N' to the 'M' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to the 'U' to the 'T' to the 'S' to the 'R' to the 'Q' to the 'P' to the 'O' to the 'N' to the 'M' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to the 'U' to the 'T' to the 'S' to the 'R' to the 'Q' to the 'P' to the 'O' to the 'N' to the 'M' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to the 'U' to the 'T' to the 'S' to the 'R' to the 'Q' to the 'P' to the 'O' to the 'N' to the 'M' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to the 'U' to the 'T' to the 'S' to the 'R' to the 'Q' to the 'P' to the 'O' to the 'N' to the 'M' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to the 'U' to the 'T' to the 'S' to the 'R' to the 'Q' to the 'P' to the 'O' to the 'N' to the 'M' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to the 'U' to the 'T' to the 'S' to the 'R' to the 'Q' to the 'P' to the 'O' to the 'N' to the 'M' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to the 'U' to the 'T' to the 'S' to the 'R' to the 'Q' to the 'P' to the 'O' to the 'N' to the 'M' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to the 'U' to the 'T' to the 'S' to the 'R' to the 'Q' to the 'P' to the 'O' to the 'N' to the 'M' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to the 'U' to the 'T' to the 'S' to the 'R' to the 'Q' to the 'P' to the 'O' to the 'N' to the 'M' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to the 'U' to the 'T' to the 'S' to the 'R' to the 'Q' to the 'P' to the 'O' to the 'N' to the 'M' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to the 'U' to the 'T' to the 'S' to the 'R' to the 'Q' to the 'P' to the 'O' to the 'N' to the 'M' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to the 'U' to the 'T' to the 'S' to the 'R' to the 'Q' to the 'P' to the 'O' to the 'N' to the 'M' to the 'L' to the 'K' to the 'J' to the 'H' to the 'G' to the 'F' to the 'E' to the 'D' to the 'C' to the 'B' to the 'A' to the 'Z' to the 'Y' to the 'X' to the 'W' to the 'V' to

Policy-Sharing, Too

For some time, the governors have been demanding a share in the federal income without strings attached. They say they need at least $10 billion a year to meet continued financial crises. This year, they came up with a new demand. They want the national administration to consult with them about legislative programs they will have to administer in their states.

Gov. Louis B. Nunn of Kentucky, the new chairman of the Republican Governors Association, whose term expires next year and who is barred by law from seeking re-election, put the idea forward. He added, "We're not looking to the President for everything," though raising the ante from income-sharing to policy-sharing was a pretty big jump.

On the face of it, the idea of consulting the governors about legislation they will have to administer seems reasonable enough. But a Republican President dealing with a Democratic Congress has a hard enough job getting what he wants in the way of legislation, without having to worry about how the governors will feel about it.

Most grants to states and cities require matching funds to be effective—for instance, on interstate highways states must put up 10 cents for every 90 cents the federal government spends in their state. The shares differ for other benefits. But most states have gladly met their shares in these undertakings because they enriched the state.

However, the welfare programs have become such a burden on the states administering them, that we suspect it is such program that Nunn had in mind when he asked to be consulted. Welfare programs have all but bankrupted some states. We can sympathize with a governor trying to meet his other obligations wanting to have a voice about these costs.

But the Republican governors voted 14 to 1 to support President Nixon's welfare reform, with Gov. Ronald Reagan of California casting the lone negative vote. His reason, "You do not improve a program that is a colossal failure by adding another program on top of it."

When it comes to policy-sharing, governors must think of their own states first.

Local Opportunities

The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce has arranged for a Career Opportunities Day to be held December 29. This annual event has the dual purpose of acquainting local young people with employment opportunities in the area and manifesting local employers' interest in having college students and military servicemen, who have completed their duty, to return to Ulster County to make their livelihood.

Job interviews will be conducted by exhibitors, products displayed and personalized assistance and consultation held by employers.

Many local young people have sought jobs in larger communities, where heretofore opportunities were greater. Today with business expansion in this area that is no longer the case. Ulster County young people first should ascertain the career possibilities at home before pursuing careers elsewhere.

Ulster County industrial and business leaders don't want to see local young people leave their home town for they are aware that a community to take its rightful place in this competitive area must have young talent in their organization.

Career Opportunities Day as been planned by the Kingston Area C. of C. as a showcase for long-term employment opportunities in the years ahead.

David Lawrence Says People Should Be Informed About Workings of Congress

WASHINGTON — As one surveys the news about Washington, much space is taken up in the press telling about many trivial matters, while penetrating stories of what's really going on in the national capital aren't being obtained.

Social parties and the criticisms that disgruntled officials may utter are given much prominence. But the important thing the public needs to know about Washington is the continuous pressure by certain organized groups to get specific legislation passed or defeated. The public reads of close votes in the House or in the Senate and of conference committees working out compromises. The story of what is back of it all, however, rarely gets into print.

Perhaps the most powerful influence in Washington is organized labor. Although federal laws forbid contributions by labor unions to political campaigns, they manage nevertheless to make them, for the laws are not too clear and are easily circumvented. Separate organizations are formed which collect money from union members, who presumably contribute "voluntarily." But the fact remains that the political strength of unions exerted through campaign contributions is the biggest factor in American politics today.

Next in importance are the lobbies conducted by large business organizations. These are put into action when particular pieces of legislation are proposed which are deemed to be harmful to certain interests. The business groups are powerful, and they exercise their influence by lining up leading members of the Senate or House in the committees where vital decisions often are made.

The President of the United States may appear to be dealing with a bipartisan Congress when he gets help from both political parties, but usually he has to make concessions to pressure groups before he can get a compromise through the mill.

Where large defense contracts are to be awarded and certain state will be directly affected, it is natural for organizations in the areas to seek to curry favor with Congress. While the Senators and representatives from those states may be responsive, the problem is how to win others to their side. This requires many a conference in Washington at which important discussions are held. Many a member of Congress can find himself with unusual opposition in his next campaign or else with an "unexpected" form of assistance depending upon how he has voted on a particular issue.

All of this activity is more or less invisible. But the press seldom takes note of the changes which occur in the voting process itself — why certain members shift their votes at critical moments. This happens even with some Senators and representatives who have been very outspoken in favor of or against a measure.

The operations of Congress are by no means easy to bring to the surface, as a good deal of the work is done behind closed doors, with such large sums involved and the material interests of big groups hanging in the balance, the lobbyists are in many instances some of the most astute men in Washington. Incidentally, they don't do much of their business actually in the lobbies of either the House or the Senate. They often meet away from the capitol. Also, they are frequently able to bring with them a number of the more prominent men of the districts or states to urge that a certain position be taken on pending legislation.

When a session is in its closing days, as is happening with the 91st Congress, many important decisions are reached in the final moments. But it is probably true that few of these are much different from the basic positions taken by special groups throughout the session. Unfortunately, these organizations hold sway whether the Republicans or Democrats are in power. Of course, the enactment or defeat of special-interest legislation which lobbyists have supported or opposed is not always unjustified. It would certainly be a help to the American people if the organizations openly expressed their viewpoints and were able to prove convincingly the merits of their arguments.

The more that is revealed to the public about the true workings of Congress, the more likely it is that some improvements can be made to remedy the unsatisfactory situation that has long prevailed at the Capitol.

Jim Bishon: Reporter

Forty years ago, this country fell headlong into the worst economic depression in its history. Herbert Hoover, well-intentioned, poorly advised, proclaimed that the gross national product would increase, and that the dollar, backed by solid gold, would soon restore prosperity.

What was it like? I was a cub reporter. My editor laid me off. My landlord begged that I stay — even though I couldn't pay rent — because he couldn't rent the apartment at $60 a month, furnished. My father went on half-salary, from $75 a week to $37.50 — take it or leave it.

What was it like? If there was one job on a garbage heap, a hundred would apply fighting, clawing and crying. Men sold apples on corners. Financiers jumped from skyscrapers in Wall Street. Women sold themselves to get cereals for their babies. There were many things no one could afford — pride was the most expensive.

Families slept on their furniture on sidewalks. Prices and salaries went down, down, down. Poor families did well to get hot oatmeal for dinner. Twenty thousand persons — mostly heads of families — held onto the heartbreak until 1931, and then committed suicide.

Waitresses earned $10 a week. Typists got $12 a week, if they could find a position. Diplomat Dwight Morrow, who lived in a huge mansion in Englewood, N.J., stated: "There is something about too much prosperity that ruins the fiber of the people." Will Rogers, humorist, said: "We are the first nation in the history of the world to go to the poorhouse in an automobile."

In Chicago, police broke up a riot of 50 men fighting in the back of a restaurant over a barrel of garbage. Steel mills were closed. Homeless men nailed boards together in empty lots and built shacks which they called "Hooverville." They ate mulligan stew made of stolen vegetables and scraps of meat.

Homes were sold for the taxes owed. Registered nurses were paid $17.80 a week and a free meal. Banks failed and closed their doors in the faces of depositors who waited in line to salvage anything. The people begged for a federal dole. The newspapers called the dole "creeping socialism."

Eddie Cantor, a famous Broadway star, lost $2,000,000 overnight and had to try to get another starring role. Boys dropped out of first year high school to get work to help the family. Thousands of fathers stole rides in freezing freight cars to get to Washington where they could beg the white granite buildings for assistance.

In elementary schools, unfed children found it difficult to concentrate on spelling and arithmetic. Soup kitchens were set up in missions, and prayer came first. The Hooverville in Washington was intolerable to the government, so General Douglas MacArthur and his aide, Major Dwight D. Eisenhower, led a U.S. Army force of tanks, cavalry and machineguns to evict them.

Mostly, they were World War I veterans, standing in tatters. The President stated: "A challenge to the authority of the United States government has been met." The stock market index hung at 59. A Chrysler sedan could be bought for $995. A cloth coat was $6.98. A man's shirt cost 47 cents.

There were few takers. Our green living room rug remained on the floor for 17 years. An eight-piece dining room set cost $46.50. Sirloin steak was 29 cents a pound. Leg of lamb was 22 cents. In Detroit, six-room, two garage homes were selling for $2,800. Milk was 10 cents; bread was 5 cents.

Fathers who lived through it broke their hearts. Whatever spirit they had was replaced by cringing humility. One week, one month, one season, one year followed another in dismal succession with everyone murmuring: "Prosperity is just around the corner."

When my neighbor wanted groceries, she gave her son a small book. He took it to Mr. Goldman, who owned the grocery store. He too was being forced against the wall, and he hadn't been paid for last month's groceries. Still, he gave the boy everything on the list — a piece of penny candy for himself.

What was it like? What was it really like? Permit me to give you a bit of gratuitous advice: work hard for your government to succeed, no matter what your politics are. You never had it so good...

Jack Anderson Says Admitting Slump, White House Nixes Higher Minimum Wage

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's budget managers have quietly nixed a Labor Department recommendation to raise the minimum wage and broaden its coverage.

Their objections, stated in a blunt memo intended for official eyes only, emphasize the sluggish economy.

"Increases should be proposed in an expansionary economic situation," the memo declares. This would seem to betray lack of faith in the Nixon Administration's public statements about the rosy economic outlook.

The Labor Department also wants to increase tax deductions for the child care expenses of working mothers. But the budget boys tersely question "whether any types of tax credits are desirable at this time given the need for increased federal revenues."

The Labor Department would like the President, further, to create a Workmen's Compensation Commission which would study how to protect workers from disastrous income losses caused by illness or injuries.

Again, the naysayers in the President's budget office objected. "We have had too many commissions on various subjects which have hampered rather than helped the Administration," they assert in their confidential response.

The rejected recommendations were advanced by a special Blue Collar Task Force, which was supposed to figure how to help the nation's hard-working, financially-squeezed blue-collar workers. But the President took the advice instead of his white-collar accountants.

Washington Expose
Backstage Feud — Henry Kissinger's crew has stepped up its sniping against State Secretary Bill Rogers. Kissinger has set up his own private State Department in the White House. His foreign policymakers are frequently at odds with Rogers's foreign policymakers. Kissinger aides are now whispering around Washington that Rogers was President Nixon's fourth choice for Secretary of State, that Rogers lacks Kissinger's academic credentials for understanding the communist threat, that Rogers is a "security risk" on Capitol Hill. They charge he consults too freely with President Nixon's arch enemy, Foreign Relations Chairman Bill Fulbright, D-Ark. On more than one occasion, Kissinger and company have gone to elaborate lengths to keep information from Rogers, for fear he might leak it to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Brewster's Woes — Ex-Senator Dan Brewster, D-Md., shorn of his Senate seat, bereft of his power and popularity, was indicted on federal bribery charges last year. The indictment was based upon the sworn but disputed recollections of his former trusted administrative assistant, John Sullivan. Then Brewster suffered a nervous breakdown that kept him confined in an Irish sanatorium for months. Now the Internal Revenue Service is giving him new headaches. IRS agents are quietly questioning those who have done business with his horse farm. In some cases, they have been asked for bill, checks and other documents. Through it all, the harassed Brewster has protested wearily that he is innocent of wrongdoing.

Anti-UN Ambassador — President Nixon's new UN

Ambassador, the defeated Texas politician George Bush, will be the first man to take the job with an open threat to pull this country out of the world body. In 1964, Bush confided to 100 Texas flatcats: "If Red China should be admitted to the UN, then the UN is hopeless and we should withdraw." It now looks as if Red China will be admitted during the Texan's tenure as UN Ambassador.

Klein's Shotgun — Herb Klein, the communications pro-consul of the Nixon Administration, tried to buy a shotgun just before Christmas at Atlas Sports in Wheaton, Md. The new gun-control law requires proof of state residency for such a purchase. Klein obligingly provided the address of his Chevy Chase, Md., home. As proof of his identity, he produced his fancy White House identification folder and pointed to his White House limousine and chauffeur outside. A local policeman in the store added his assurance that the customer was indeed Herb Klein.

But Atlas's law-abiding clerks would not accept this as proof of Klein's residency. At last, Klein had them call the Secret Service to certify that he lived in Maryland. Thoughout the 30-minute hassle, he behaved with polite, oriental-like inscrutability. Then, with the boxed shotgun under his arm, he disappeared into his limousine.

Bitter Brew — Budweiser may be the king of beers, as the television commercials say. But Anheuser-Busch, the company that makes Budweiser, must now drink a bitter brew of the government's making. The Agriculture Department, which does business with Anheuser-Busch, has secretly cited the company for racist employment practices. The brewmakers were given 30 days to show cause why enforcement proceedings shouldn't be started against them for failure to comply with federal hiring standards. An investigation revealed that force of more than 5,000 employed only 109 blacks at its St. Louis headquarters. Yet the population of the city is more than half blacks.

Industrial Titan

Growth of Japan Feeds on Itself

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — With the Senate awash in its own ineptitude and the controversial import quota bill doomed to die, time has been bought for a fuller look at the trade problems. Deeply involved is bustling Japan.

It is Japan which would be a principal target of proposed quotas on textiles, though these also would strike hard at such developing lands as Korea, Taiwan and Latin America.

In all the furor, a good many myths, not all of them new, have surfaced about Japan. They ought to be dispelled.

Our textile imports from that country have been rising. But they need to be put in perspective. The textiles and textile products we buy from the Japanese represent only around 1.1 per cent of total annual U.S. consumption in this field.

There are some common and quite serious errors in the matter of Japan's alleged dependence on trade. The simplest corrective is to note that it exports just 10 per cent of its total yearly output, as against West Germany's 25 per cent.

As an island empire largely barren of vital raw materials, Japan indeed must export and import to live. But in the truest sense it does not live by trade. It has skyrocketed to position as the world's third largest industrial power because it has a home market of 100 million people.

By volume, certainly, Japan's trade is large. We are the country's best customer, not only for textiles but for automobiles, motorcycles, television sets and other electronic items, cameras and a good many other products. In turn, Japan is our second best trading partner, surpassed only by Canada. As if we were just a developing land, we supply the Japanese with farm products and a host of the raw materials it needs.

Yet the real story about Japan is that since about 1950 it has been undergoing an internal economic revolution. It is this which has lifted it to its present industrial eminence and may permit it even to surpass the Soviet Union by the mid-1980s.

Probably more than any nation on earth, Japan today can be accurately described as an "economic state." Twenty years ago it was still weak and struggling, with the hearts of some 60 cities heavily scarred by U.S. firebombings in World War II. (The burn-out of Tokyo in March, 1945, produced 100,000 dead, more than are believed to have been killed in the atomic raid on Hiroshima.)

Even a decade ago, the country had made just a modest comeback. Since then, however, the upward bound has been incredible. Japan's national income more than doubled in the 1960s. By force of will and work, aided by some key advantages, it has remade itself.

The Pacific shore of Honshu, the main island, is on the way to becoming a continuous urban swath more intensively developed than our own celebrated Boston to Washington megalopolis.

More than 90 per cent of Japanese homes have television sets, and from two-thirds to three-fourths of the households have washing machines, refrigerators and similar equipment.

Japan is truly the great communicator. Television reaches almost 100 per cent of its peasant families. The great newspaper, Asahi, has an unparalleled circulation of nine million.

Unsung Building A Better World

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The other day a student enclosed a letter with her Christmas card saying, "I'm glad you think my generation is a good generation, because I think that too. I hate to see the newspapers print pages and pages on college riots and violence and then print just small articles on the great, good things that we do. I'm sure you heard about the 'danceathon' (for muscular dystrophy) at Maryland U. ($15,500 was raised). I was there and it made me feel so proud to be a teen-ager."

Then there's the young married man, aged 31, with two small children — a successful architect already in a major firm — who at the height of the recession decided to give up his job so that he could move into a type of architecture in which he believed he could be of greater service to people. His resources were low because he was just recovering from some extraordinary medical expenses. No job was in sight. Yet he risked the move.

He didn't wave any banners, make any speeches or engage in any demonstrations. He just quietly made up his mind. Then there's the girl, 21, dependent on herself for support, who gave up an excellent job in computer work for a low-paying post in a hospital because she could no longer work at something which she felt was not directly and personally related to helping people. She's now testing children at birth for hearing defects.

And an older man, a barber with seven children who with a friend quietly goes out to a home for the elderly every three weeks to cut hair for these oldsters for free. He doesn't advertise what he is doing.

These, of course, are very unusual people. But there are millions of just such unusual people. They are all around us. They're in the house next door, in our church and office and our car pool. And we find them among our own children.

We read the headlines about some nut (young or old) so busy charging around, organizing riots, shouting at the establishment on war, pollution and race and accusing everyone else of failure that he himself has no time to do anything in his own life to make a better world. He is only yelling at other people. Sometimes we tend to think that these are representative of college youth or something. They're not.

Actually, most people are pretty sincere most want to make the world better, middle-aged or old. We have idiots among us for sure, but no more, say, than 100 years ago or a thousand. It's only that the idiots seem to get more publicity these days.

Many Activities Highlight the Festive Season

With a whole week of holiday vacation still ahead of them, area teens can look forward to social events, sports activity and family gatherings.

Caught by Freeman photographer Robert Haines (left) as they were putting on the finishing touches were (L-R) Nora Bassett, Dave Scholar, Carol Brinnier and Debbie Blakley.

Stepping out in their number, Fifty Stars, at the Zena School Talent Show were Brenda Cochran, Suzanne Donoghue and Sandra Collier. Freeman photographer John Krush was at the show to get the photograph at right.

Others who participated in the winning production were Steve Olson on trumpet, Margaret Whitney with a puppet skit, Sharon Phillips with a flute solo and John Baldelli, accordion.

Activities of a different nature have occupied the Future Business Leaders of America Club at Kingston High School. The membership of 60 students under the direction of Mary Ellen Bruck, chapter president sold Christmas candles for the Ulster County Chapter Association for Retarded Children.

The club sold approximately $500 worth of candles with Mary Ellen taking high sales honors. Presentation of the donation was made this week with Mary Ellen, Darlene Polacco, treasurer and Sue Dillon, vice president in turn receiving a citation from Mrs. James Lynady on behalf of Dan Leahy, executive director of ARC.

Earth Committee Takes No Vacation

NEW PALTZ as it winds from New Jersey to Rifton. Testing to determine the places of major pollution, cleanliness and hopefully some spots of purity, the committee will return to chart findings. Results will be announced.

The earth committee in addition to its local samplings for its own information on pollution of the Walkkill, has instituted a service for area residents. Members will test water samples for bacteriological contamination free of charge. Those interested in the service may contact the school for a water test bottle and directions. The sample should be returned to the school as soon as possible. Residents submitting samples will be notified of the results by mail.

In a report of recent private testings committee members Debbie Perkins, Rita Freer and Diane Lent found that 25 percent were polluted. In their report they noted that "though this may not make the inhabitants having a polluted water supply sick, for they become immune to it, people drinking this water for the first time may become very ill."

The committee is investigating the possibility of such a high percentage of polluted home water supplies stemming from seepage of the "very polluted Walkkill." A continued study is being made on this subject and the committee urged home owners to aid in the sampling.

Some of the sources of this pollution were noted in a report by Eric Flavin of the earth committee. He said there were a number of houses with septic tank runoff feeding into roadside streams or ditches which eventually flow into the Walkkill tributaries, thence to the main stream and on into the Hudson.

In connection with classes at New Paltz High school a number of field trips have been arranged to acquaint students with the many medical, industrial and ecological areas available in the community.

In one of these related school sponsored events, biology students witnessed a demonstration of an electrocardiogram. Dr. Sheldon Spencer on the State University College at New Paltz conducted the demonstration. Arrangements for the event were made by Peter Kane, William Fronheiser and Michael Zimmerman, science teachers.

Seeing the Seventies Through

by LEI

If you are the type of encyclopedic who knows why spiders aren't bugs and that chow mein is not a Chinese dish, then you probably already know that the new decade begins next Friday. (Apparently, decades run from one through ten, so the new decade begins in 1971 and ends in 1980.)

Most teens can remember 1961, the start of the decade now closing. It was the period of motor scooters and beatniks and first peace marches. The Saturday Evening Post was still publishing, candy bars were still a nickel, and nobody but sailors wore bell-bottoms. Nobody had ever heard of the Beatles or Vietnam or LSD. John Kennedy's star seemed to be on the rise, and Richard Nixon's seemed to be on the decline. Girls wore skirts that covered their knees and lipstick that made them look like the embalmer quit for lunch early. Boys wore pants so tight that it was a struggle to get them on over the foot, and the moon was still a beautiful stranger in the sky.

In another ten years will Indian fringe, snowmobiles, Johnny Cash, Kent State, and midskirts seem as nostalgic as those memories of 1961? What will we remember of the "old decade" in 1981? That will be only three years away from the much-discussed date, 1984: will George Orwell's surrealistic world be a reality?

By 1981, most of the readers of this column will be in their twenties, and some will have even passed that untrustworthy thirtieth birthday. The Sesame Street set will be teenagers, and college revolutionists of today will be in their thirties, many of them with school-aged children. How will they have altered the world, and how will it have altered them?

Trends such as the midi-skirt and mens' velvet suits indicate that the seventies may see sexuality take second place to sensuality, as all the senses become awakened, including taste, hearing, and smell. There will be a new awareness of the messages communicated by feelings, sounds, and human conservation.

The overdue new direction in music may well be much quieter than the rock revolution of the 'sixties,' and will probably be marked by the discovery of a new musical idol, comparable to Presley in the 'fifties' and the Beatles in the 'sixties.' Reflecting the developing sensitivity of the era it will probably be a solo entertainer, and possibly an instrumentalist.

The new sensitivity will not only affect music, but also films and drama. There will not be a return to prudery, but there will be a distinct romantic trend.

By 1981, pot may be legal, but it won't seem too important. With the increased awareness of the potential of their own senses, many people will feel sufficiently turned on by just the vibrations and sensations of the world around them. Cigarette manufacturers will find out what whiskey distillers have always known—you don't need television to make a profit.

Television will grow up or die off. Sponsors, networks, and the public will realize that the media cannot continue gearing its programming toward a moronic twelve-year-old. Improved technology will result in many physical changes in television as took place in radio during the past decade.

The major threat to peace in 1981 may well be some place we hardly hear of today—possibly one of the emerging nations in Africa. The generation that grew up asking for peace will be moving into the channel of power where they could make it happen. With the new emphasis on communication, the 'eighties' could begin an era of peace.

Space may well take second place to the planet earth. A damage already done to our environment today may cause cataclysmic side-effects during the next decade and the time and money used now in the conquest of space will have to be spent saving our own world.

There will be new attitudes on equality, as it is realized that it cannot be legislated, but must develop. Today's young liberals may find their liberality strained when they are faced with the real thing through the first generation brought up in an atmosphere of racial liberation—and celebration. Women may very well equalize themselves right into the draft.

In the midst of change, some things will remain the same. Mankind will still ponder on what the future holds. Some teenager, who, right now is trying out that first typewriter he or she got for Christmas, will sit typing away the closing hours of 1980, a decade from now. Typing a column about the future in 1991....

Campus Gleanings

Even though it may be holiday recess on most campuses information still comes in concerning recent activities of Ulster County students.

Orlinda Reid, daughter of Rev. J. Filson Reid of Ashokan Parsonage, Shokan, is enrolled for the first semester at Union College. A graduate of Hunter-Tannersville Central High School, Miss Reid is in her senior year and is seeking a career in teaching. Miss Reid was Phi Mu Alpha Sweetheart in her junior year and is a member of Gamma-Sigma Sigma.

Union College is a senior educational, liberal arts institution affiliated with the United Methodist Church. Founded in 1879, the school has a tradition of high-quality education and Christian ideals. This year there are 927 students representing 28 different states and one foreign country. Undergraduate and graduate programs are offered leading to the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, Bachelor of Music, and the Master of Arts in Education degrees.

Karen L. Jacobs of 209 Washington Avenue, Saugerties, has graduated with honors from the School of Astronomy, a division of the Coast Navigation School, Santa Barbara, Calif., after completing a course in visual Astronomy.

Captain Svend T. Simonsen.

director of the school, presented Miss Jacobs with her Graduation Certificate, which gives her membership in the Honorable Company of Amateur Astronomers, a world-wide group concerned with furthering the exploration of outer space.

Among the many students home for the holidays is Valerie Jean Vogel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Vogel of 184 Albany Avenue, Kingston. She attends Penn Hall Junior College in Chambersburg, Pa.

To one and all happy holiday vacation and happy 1971 with anticipation of many more items of interest concerning Youth in the News.

Youth in Fight For Pure Food

LONDON (UPI)—Youth is not only protesting the pollution of the environment—it is leading the fight for pure food.

Dr. Max Warmbrand made this point in an address to the 10th annual convention of the International Society for Research in Nutrition and the Diseases of Civilization at Trier in Germany.

Then he came to London and gave a practical demonstration of his claim by showing that the majority of diners in many of the restaurants claiming food grown "organically" (free of pesticides) were indeed young. "These youngsters will not accept the values of the older generation without proof," said Dr. Warmbrand, a gentle 74-year-old who lives in Stamford, Conn., and Orlando, Fla. "They want to know why there is so much disease in countries such as ours despite the high standard of living."

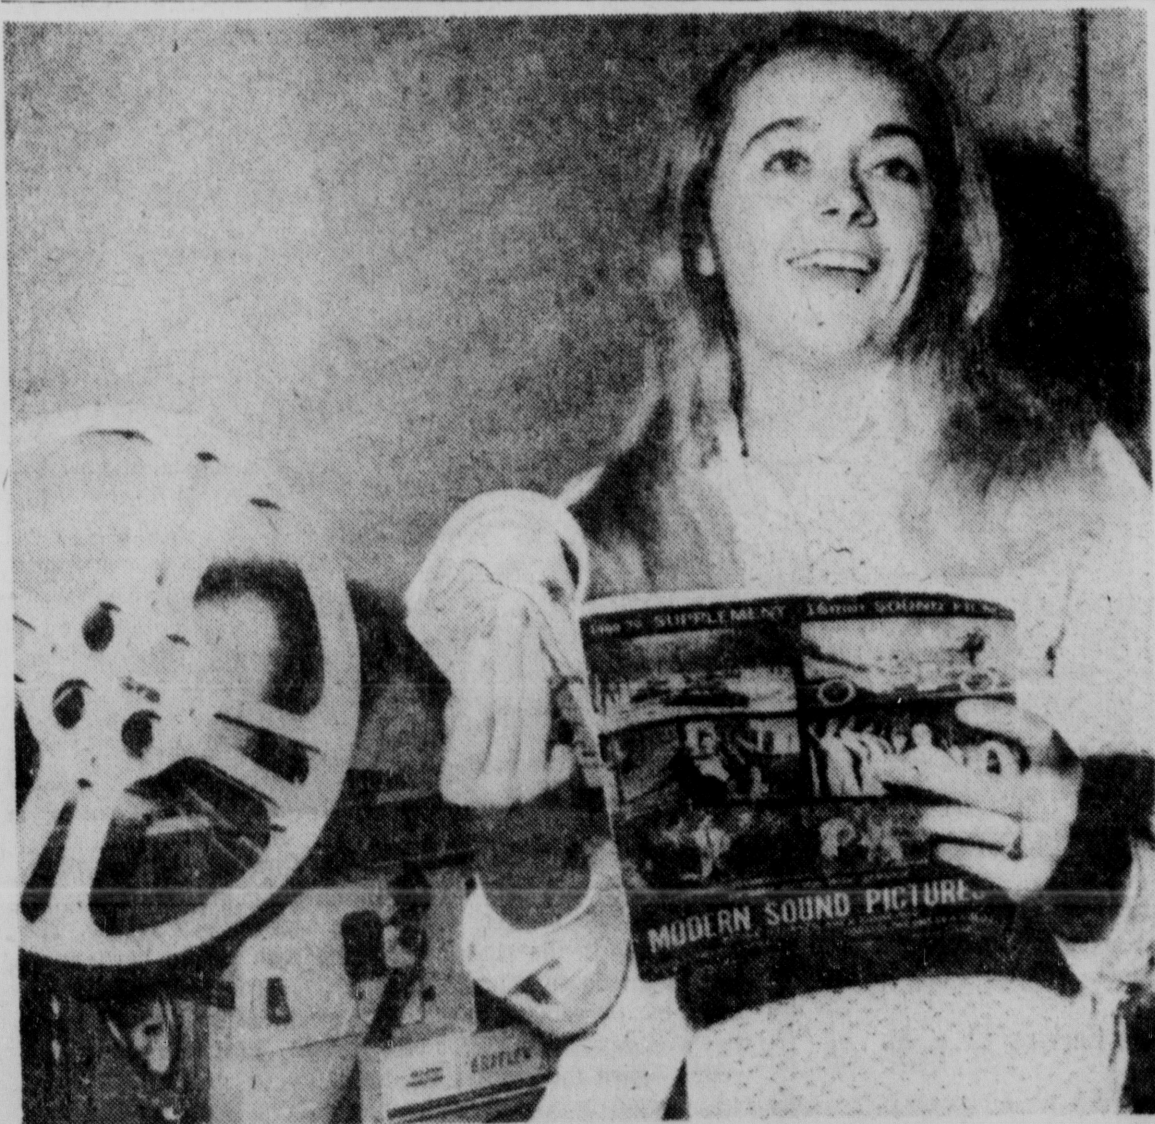

"They want to know what we are doing wrong, why Americans do not live as long as some other people? This has led them to question among other things the diet of the older generation freely accepts. This change in the thinking of the new generation presents a challenge to the individual doctor and educator."

As Dr. Warmbrand spoke he was surrounded, in a restaurant called "Raw Deal" by groups of strikingly dressed members of the swinging London set. He was greeted by the manager with respect as the author of "The Encyclopedia of Health" and other books on health and diet.

Dr. Warmbrand said he impressed on the delegates at Trier the need to lead the young into sensible eating and living habits rather than have them experiment with useless or harmful fads. His own four-point plan for keeping healthy is:

Enough sleep and rest; some physical exercise; emotional control and the right nutrition. In his terms the latter basically means fresh fruit and vegetables and whole wheat products and moderate amounts of meat, fish or poultry if desired.

MOVIE MAKER — Marilyn Savage, a senior at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, is the gal behind a highly successful film series on the campus this year. After persuading the College Government Association to put up the money for free movies twice a week, she has ordered the films, scheduled the use of the hall, run the projector, and even made advertising posters. What else has she received besides the enjoyment of seeing movies? Muscles, from carrying heavy film cases back and forth from the Post Office. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

The Second Forty

By Margaret Brookfield

THE QUESTION OF AGE

Dear Miss Brookfield:
I am a 58-year-old widow with a nice figure, working to support myself. I have been going out with a 38-year-old man who is very kind to me in different ways and who tells me he loves me very much. He says he'd like to marry me and take care of me as I get older. He can't be after my money because I haven't any. Because of the difference in our ages though, I hesitate about marriage. I would like your advice about this.

P.S. He has a temper.

M.B., Prospect Park, N.J.
Dear M.B.:

Although we readily accept marriages between older men and younger women, we tend to be skittish about those situations where the wife is the older of the two. Fortunately, all this is changing. Psychiatrists say that age difference needn't be a problem, unless the couple make it one. They consider age an artificial way to categorize people and are optimistic about the chances for happiness in a marriage between an older woman and a younger man. In your own case, perhaps you'd better decide if his temper might be more of a problem than his age.

LOOKING ALIKE

Dear Miss Brookfield:
I'm very disturbed by a tendency I've noticed lately among boy and girl teenagers, particularly the way they dress alike and look alike. You can hardly tell some of them apart. What do you think about this?

K.C., Corpus Christi, Tex.

Dear K.C.:

The definitions of "masculine" and "feminine" are certainly in a state of flux. Charles Winick, Professor of Anthropology at the City University of New York, calls this look-alike trend "unisex" and he deprecates it. He believes that if people don't have a clear idea of their own sex, they're not able to cope with other realities. On the other hand, Diana Trilling of Columbia University welcomes this development. She says that "man and not God" designed the styles of hair and dress for men and women, and that if we get rid of some of these differences, this might bring people closer together. Now you know the two schools of thought. Take your choice.

Have you a problem as a mature woman, or with one? For advice and help, write to Margaret Brookfield, Information Center on the Mature Woman, 3 West 57th Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Beauty Care on the Go

Lucky you if you're basking or are planning to bask in Florida or California sunshine these cold months. But don't press that luck too far by neglecting good grooming. Bright sunlight not only warms, it also illuminates. So now's the time to concentrate on the two ingredients that are basic to loveliness — soap and water.

Whether you're retired or taking an extended vacation, whether you will be residing in a mobile home, hotel, or efficiency apartment, you're likely to have less space than at home. Figure out what you need, and take just that.

Undoubtedly, you will have more time for beauty care — so make the most of it and set up a routine to keep you looking your best. If you're taking a daily dip in the ocean, shampoo your hair after swimming because salt water dries out the tresses. Even if you're just relaxing in the sun, your hair will need more frequent washing than usual because of the sand you're bound to pick up.

Don't overexpose either hair or skin to the sun. It's not only painful to the skin but also harmful and has a drying effect on both skin and hair. Protect epidermis with suntan lotion or cream. Guard both skin and hair with a hat or beach umbrella, as intense heat and sunburn can make you ill.

Remember that your neck, arms, and legs are on display in warm weather clothes so give them extra grooming care. Shaving can be accomplished in minutes with a lot of soapy lather and razor. Thick soaps made shaving the legs easier, and if you do nick the skin slightly, the soap helps prevent infection.

Remove any rough spots on arms, legs, or back by scrubbing vigorously with plenty of soapsuds and a brush of loofa mitt. Loofa, a vegetable fiber, can be bought either in the form of a mitt or by the piece. It has just the right amount of body and "roughness" to give your skin a thorough cleansing, leave it smooth and glowing.

Whatever you do, don't neglect the daily bath or shower, and give yourself a complete manicure at least once a week.

Concentrate on grooming while you're enjoying that warm sun. You'll find it's pleasant, easy, and well worth the effort.

Betrothals Announced Here Recently

DEBORAH W. CLINTON

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt E. Clinton of Laurel Terrace, Ellenville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Whitney Clinton, to Thomas Michael Stack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Stack, 15 Park Lane, Scotia.

Miss Clinton, a 1967 graduate of Ellenville High School, is a senior at Hope College, Holland, Mich., where she is majoring in psychology, sociology and education. She is an officer of Sigma Iota Beta Sorority.

Her fiancé, a 1967 graduate of Burnt Hills-Ballston Spa High School, is also a senior at Hope College, majoring in political science and pre-law. No date has been set for the wedding.

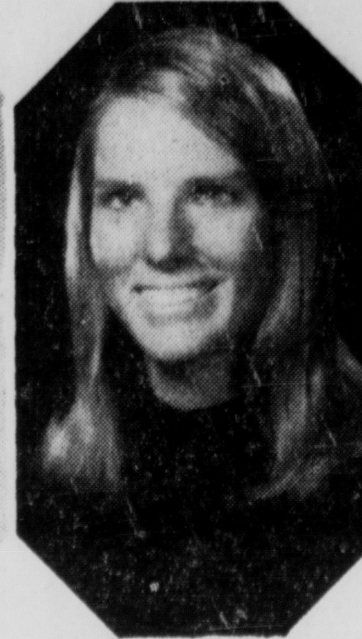

CLAUDIA PALEN

Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Palen of Hurley announce the engagement of their daughter, Claudia, to Henry J. Turner, son of Mr. and Henry E. Turner and the late Mrs. Turner of Cambridge, Mass.

Miss Palen is a graduate of The Children's Hospital Medical Center School of Nursing, Boston, Mass. and is employed at the Children's Hospital.

Mr. Turner is a graduate of Northeastern University, Boston, Mass. where he received a BA degree in education. He is employed as a teacher at the Hubbard School, Middletown, Conn. A spring wedding is planned.

JANET R. BARKER

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Barker of Hillsborough, Calif. and formerly of Denver, Colo. announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet Arline, to Robert E. Decker, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Decker of 3 Briarwood Drive, Town of Poughkeepsie, formerly of Kingston.

Miss Barker is a graduate of Abbot Academy, Andover, Mass. and the University of Colorado.

Her fiancé, an alumnus of Poughkeepsie High School and State University College at New Paltz, is a candidate for a doctoral degree in Psychology at the American University in Washington, D.C. He is the grandson of Mrs. Charles Burger and Mrs. Jeannette Decker of Kingston. A January 9 wedding in Aspen, Colo. is planned.

Mr. and Mrs. John Beisel of Second Street, Connelly, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Ellen, to George Milton Tisler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Tisler of Box 82, Ulster Park.

Miss Beisel is a 1969 graduate of Kingston High School and is employed by Prudential Insurance Company of America.

Her fiancé, a 1966 alumnus of Kingston High School, is associated with Three Brothers Egg Farm in Ulster Park. He served two years in the U.S. Army, stationed 18 months in Okinawa. A September 18, 1971 wedding is planned.

Married Today

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Laura deGroff O'Reilly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. deGroff Jr., Vauxhall, Kingston, and Lt. James E. Kunkel Jr., USN, son of Mrs. Abigail R. Kunkel of 608 Chestnut Street, Columbia, Pa. and the late James E. Kunkel.

The Rev. Robert Hess officiated at the double ring ceremony today at Flatbush Reformed Church, Saugerties. Lt. Kunkel is currently serving as weapons officer on board the attack nuclear submarine USS Dace (SSN 607), homeported in New London, Conn.

The Kunkels will reside at 27 1/2 Gravel Street, Mystic, Conn.

Juliette LaBounty Is Bride-Elect

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph J. LaBounty of New Salem Road, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Juliette, to William A. Mugford, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mugford of 4 Locust Avenue, Yonkers.

Miss LaBounty attended the Academy of St. Ursula and is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1968. She is employed as a medical secretary for Dr. Jacinto Lopez, Margaretville.

Her fiancé, an alumnus of Yonkers High School, served in the U.S. Marines for three years in Vietnam. He is employed by George Sloan, Arkville Plumbing and Heating, Arkville.

A February wedding is planned.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I would like to put a bee in the bonnet of your readers whose children might have received those darling red flannel granny gowns and Santa pi's for Christmas.

I learned the hard way and thought maybe I could save some other poor unsuspecting mother the dilemma I found myself in.

Just be sure that you wash those gowns before you let your children wear them.

Last year my daughter got the cutest red flannel gown and after wearing it the first night found that her sheets had turned red, but even more of a problem was the fact that three of my plastic kitchen chairs have a pink tint even after a whole year. I didn't realize that she was such a chair hopper.

Sure hope someone might benefit from my mistake.

Mrs. Mary Sisson
You'd do well to make a mental note of that gals... 'cause sure as Santa's got a beard that's exactly what might happen.
Thanks a million for your thoughtfulness.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:
Please excuse the typing! This double-dashed machine stutters and hisps something awful...

Hunt 'n' Peck
sounds like we might have the same machine.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Why not use your bird bath as a bird feeder in the winter? It will make a dandy one.

Mary Ann

I would like to pass on a hint I discovered when decorating for Christmas.

I use stencils on my windows, and found out that you can use white shoe polish instead of glass wax or spray snow and get the same results.

It will not rub off if accidentally brushed against. Just use the polish that comes in a bottle with a sponge dispenser. This works perfectly.

When you get ready to remove the decorations, just use vinegar-water and, bingo, your windows are sparkling again.

Mrs. D. L. Bone

Dear Heloise:

I always place my salt and pepper shakers close to the stove.

When using them I pick up the salt shaker first. If there's pepper on the food I know it has also been salted. I think it's a good habit to get into.

Mrs. M. Galloway

Bless you for this one. Busy mothers have so many interruptions in the mornings. After the questions, "Where are my socks," — "I can't find my books," sometimes eggs are salted twice.

Moore-Thompson Nuptials Told

Miss Sally Lou Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earle S. Moore of Richmond Parkway, Kingston, formerly of Trenton, N. J., was married in the evening of November 20 to Richard J. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, Hightstown, N.J. in St. Anthony of Padua Church, Hightstown.

The Rev. Houghney performed the double ring ceremony. He was assisted by the Rev. Richard Mills of Cornwall on Hudson, cousin of the bride. Mrs. Richard Nickel of Mercerville, New Jersey was soloist, accompanying herself at the organ. She sang "The Wedding Prayer" during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white velvet, Victorian floor length gown fashioned with a high neckline and long full sleeves. It was trimmed with antique lace woven with pink satin ribbon. Her floor length illusion veil was held in place with a bow of the antique lace and pink ribbon. She wore a Cameo brooch which had belonged to her paternal great grandmother. The bride carried a nosegay of white carnations center with white roses and pink ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Richard Jusko, Washington, D.C. was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a long skirt and vest of majenta and purple plaid and a white long sleeved ruffled blouse. She wore a purple ribbon at the waist which was also entwined in her hair and carried a nosegay of white baby carnations with white ribbon streamers.

The bride's gown was made by her mother and her sister designed and fashioned her own gown.

John Thompson, Hightstown was the best man for his brother. Ushers were Alexander Urbani, Surf City, N.J. and James Pierson, Cranbury, N.J.

Immediately following the ceremony, a dinner was held for the immediate families and the bridal party at the Nassau Inn, Princeton, N. J.

For her wedding trip to Vermont and New Hampshire, the bride selected a white knit dress.

The bride is a graduate of Ewing High School, Trenton, N.J., attended Ulster County Community College, Stone Ridge, and until recently was employed by IBM, Kingston.

Her husband is a graduate of Cathedral High School, Trenton, attended Mercer County Community College. He is employed by the New Jersey State Home for Boys, Jamesburg, as an assistant teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will make their home in Cranbury, New Jersey.

Doing the Right Thing

THE FOLLOWING letter has been chosen as the prize-winning one for this week. A copy of "Emily Post's Etiquette" has been sent to Mrs. J.G. of New York.

DEAR MRS. POST: So much is written about the good hostess, but being a good guest has its fine points, too. Here are a few of my pet peeves.

1. The guest who, when the hostess suggests taking her wrap upstairs, replies, "Oh, just throw it anywhere."

2. The guest who ignores all the hostess's invitations to come in to dinner and keeps right on talking, thus letting food get cold and making everyone else wait.

3. The guest who takes it upon herself to change place cards at the dinner table because she doesn't particularly care for her dinner companion.

4. The well-meaning soul who follows the hostess into the kitchen to help in the last-minute preparations, and then stays on to chat just when the hostess is busiest.

MRS. J.G.
DEAR MRS. G.: You have said it — I don't need to add a word. They are all legitimate peeves, and ones which I hope my readers will remember to avoid.

DEAR MRS. POST: In your article on Thanksgiving dinner, someone asked about turnips and what could be done with them aside from mashing, which their children did not care for. You stated that turnips must be mashed! Why?

My children, all grown now, have never cared for mashed turnips, but love them my way. I dice my turnips in about 3/4-inch cubes, cook them, drain them, then add more salt (to taste), pepper and fresh or dried parsley (for color interest only). This I turn back into the original cooking pan in which I have melted a large chunk of butter (or margarine) long enough to mix it.

Do try it! It looks nice and tastes better than "blah" mashed turnips.

DEAR MRS. B: I should have written "turnips are usually mashed," rather than "turnips must be mashed." Thanks for calling attention to it and for the recipe, which I hope will solve the turnip problem for other readers.

NEW PALTZ remedied, and the utility assessment, so it is most pleasing to note the interest in showing how the underground wiring could be done for each of the houses on the street, beginning at LeFevre House (54) and on through to the Free House (98), all within the Historic District.

As there are still private residences on the street, the church and the Historical Society had to ask the aid of the Village Board as to how best to meet the situation. The matter has rested there since that time.

The trustees of the Huguenot Historical Society have already agreed that they are eager to have the poles and wires buried and would be willing to pay the

Young Marines to Mark First Saugerties Year

SAUGERTIES announced. Three boys will be company staff sergeants, the first ones for Company B. Also, one boy will be named first sergeant of the company, an honor accorded only one other boy in the entire local Young Marine history.

Units from Company A, including the color guard, will join with their Saugerties buddies for the ceremonies. The public may attend and see the Young Marine Unit in action. Further plans will be announced concerning details of the program.

On Wednesday evening, Jan. 13, appropriate ceremonies will be held at the Saugerties Junior-Senior High School commemorating a very successful first year of operation. In addition to the anniversary observance, a recruit graduation will be held for the group of boys now undergoing their basic "boot" training. Some 20 boys will receive their certificates indicating the completion of 12 weeks of training.

Also on that evening, several important promotions will be

Fish to Open Delhi Office

DELHI Security, Welfare, Immigration, will make this office convenient for residents of the four county area. Previously, Schoharie residents were served from the Congressman's Hudson, New York Office.

Mrs. Rowe is a member of the Ladies' Auxiliary in Hancock and the Read Memorial Hospital Guild. She has been active in the Emory Methodist Church, as well as serving her community as a village trustee. Mrs. Rowe is the mother of four children—Terry Ann, Sue Ellen, Robin Joy and Samuel—all students in the Hancock Central School, Hancock. "I am delighted to have Mrs. Rowe as a member of my staff. As a resident of the District and deeply involved in community life, she brings an awareness of local problems," the Congressman concluded.

"This new Delhi office will be part of the network of three district offices and my Washington Office to serve constituents of the 18th Congressional District," Congressman Fish said. The Congressman's other offices are in Kingston and Hudson. "I would hope that constituents will contact this office when they need information or have problems relating to such Federal functions as Social

Fruitless POW Raid

Denies a Security Leak

EDITORS NOTE: Sgt. Marshall A. Thomas of Ames, Iowa, was one of the volunteers who took part in the fruitless attempt to rescue prisoners of war from North Vietnam last month. Thomas returned to Ames last weekend to visit his family and was interviewed by Jim Mone of the Ames Daily Tribune. The following, one of the first accounts of the raid from the viewpoint of an enlisted man, is Mone's report:

SGT. THOMAS

By JIM MONE
Ames Daily Tribune
(Written for UPI)

AMES, Iowa (UPI)—An Iowa serviceman who took part in an unsuccessful November raid on a North Vietnamese prisoner of war camp near Hanoi is convinced there was no security leak involved in the mission.

Sgt. Marshall A. Thomas, 22, of Ames said in an interview even the participants were kept in total secrecy about the nature of the mission until "it was too late to run or cry."

Security, he said, "was a big thing." Although the U.S.

on scale and based on definite landmarks.

Thomas Figures Out Task

"It didn't take an intelligence expert to figure out what it was," Thomas said. From then on, Thomas said, he knew his task involved "getting someone out."

Much of the training was done during the evening hours so the men could learn to function by moonlight, Thomas said. When the volunteers learned the true nature of their mission, many were scared, some had trouble eating and sleeping and some of the more talkative men suddenly became "pretty quiet," he said.

An undisclosed number of helicopters finally took off for the Son Tay Prison Camp, and a flare ship dropped three minutes worth of light to illuminate the village and prison compound.

"They had no idea what was going on," Thomas said of the villagers and North Vietnamese soldiers. When the flares died, a quarter-moon provided the only light.

The raid was timed to the minute, Thomas said, praising the well executed plans that failed only because the prisoners had been moved from the village. Thomas said one helicopter even staged a crash to confuse the enemy. "There was quite a bit of resistance," he said. "All the people who were a threat had to be disposed of."

Could Not Believe

Thomas said he was in "awe" when he learned the American POWs had been moved out. "I could not believe all that training would not pay off any results," he said.

Later, he said, his opinion changed. "We showed we could stick our head in the tiger's mouth, and the tiger didn't sneeze," he said. Thomas praised both the team effort and the "military genius" behind the rescue mission.

Thomas said he is convinced the prisoners had been moved out of the camp because it was close to Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays, and they were taken to Hanoi. During their absence, he thinks the North Vietnamese government intended to clean up and remodel the camp.

Then, he said, the men were to have been returned to the camp for pictures that showed "how nice" they were being treated to "quell feelings of the people in the States."

"Even though we got no one out, it shows we haven't forgotten them," he said.

Snowmobile Law Suffers Defeat

ROCHESTER — A law which would have permitted the operation of snowmobiles on town roads in the Town of Rochester was voted down by a vote of 3 to 2 at a Town Board meeting following a public hearing recently.

Jurors Will Report Jan. 4

KINGSTON — Grand and trial jurors who will serve the January 1971 term of Supreme Court will report on Jan. 4 at the Court House in Kingston.

Grand jurors will report at 11 a. m. and trial jurors at 9:30 a. m. Justice Louis G. Bruhn will preside during Part One of the term and Justice John L. Larkin at Part Two.

Trial jurors who will serve during the January 1971 term of County Court will report at 10 a. m. Wednesday, Jan. 5 at Ulster County Court House, Judge Raymond J. Mino will preside.

Pros and cons of the proposal were discussed at the hearing following which the vote was taken with Supervisor Franklin S. Kelder and Councilman Russell Kortright favoring the measure and Councilman Charles H. Logan Jr., Justice Harold Lipton and Justice Raymond Lawrence voting against it.

The Town Board also voted in favor of a proposed local law which would allow a $4,000 income limit for partial tax exemption for senior citizens on their real property tax. Those qualifying must be 65 years of age with limited income and must file application with the Chairman of the Board of Assessors Harry H. Krom, no later than May 2.

Health Dept. Clinics Set For Woodstock

WOODSTOCK — The Ulster County Health Department will begin a monthly series of immunization clinics on Jan. 20 from 10 to 11 a. m. at the Old Forge Road entrance of the Dutch Reformed Church in Woodstock.

This will be a clinic for tetanus, smallpox, measles, and rubella.

Tetanus immunizations should be given at two months of age, state, and that would leave Sihanouk in a precarious position, Sihanouk is erratic and he is nationalist enough to have turned on the Communists in

The Cambodian Conflict — Short-Term Red Win Unlikely

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Last summer, when the Communists were at the Cambodian capital's gates, many observers predicted a quick, ugly end to the war with a rout of the government and perhaps the return of Prince Norodom Sihanouk to power.

Those predictions proved false, and though the wolf is once again at the door, most official analysts in Phnom Penh believe a short-term Communist victory here is unlikely, if for no other reason than that it would have little practical value.

What is feared, however, is that the Communists will be able to so debilitate the army, the economy and the political structure in a long, intense guerrilla struggle, that the country will be a pushover when they judge the time is ripe.

Sapping Tactics Based on their actions and options over the eight months since the war began, most analysts here believe the Communists are after three things: to demoralize the army, eliminating it as a threat to their rear; to sap the economy and make the cities dependent on U.S. aid, thus isolating them from the countryside; and to build among the peasants a classic Communist movement that will one day be able to drive the government out.

The assessment here is that in the short term the last thing the Communists want to do is to take over. There are two good reasons for this: they haven't anyone to run the country well. If they did, and they are well aware that in terms of Vietnam, still their major objective, they would gain nothing by ruling Phnom Penh.

that as the Cambodians come more and more to realize they are in for a long and bitter war, the army's fighting spirit may go sour.

At least eight Cambodian battalions have been virtually wiped out since the Communist dry season offensive opened Nov. 9, and the Communists have begun throttling the capital itself by cutting off major highway access to it.

The army is fumbling because it is badly armed, badly trained and worst of all, badly led. The Cambodians are getting World War II carbines and M79 grenade launchers to fight Communist AK47s and B40 rockets. The army's 70-odd Communist-made artillery pieces are nearly out of ammunition, and the forces have only 28 howitzers to cover the entire country.

Communist Strength Rising Cambodian soldiers and their junior officers are so green that they do not know how to use basic light infantry tactics, like fire-and-movement, and they do not bother to dig simple fortifications or entrench their mortars and cannon.

The army as a whole is still searching, in the words of its official spokesman, Col. Am Rong, for a "classic battle" that the Communists are never likely to give it.

According to numerous people who have strong contacts in the countryside — missionaries, government officials, journalists, intellectuals and businessmen — The Communists even now control villages as close as 10 miles from the capital. They are using their stock "armed propaganda" technique of terror and political control to set up what amounts to a rival administration that is stronger than the central government ever was at the village level.

This is the thing that worries Cambodians the most. As one man here put it recently the Khmer Rouge have already become a force we must reckon with indefinitely. If they continue to grow, eventually we may have to bend our knees to them."

Dr. Link said the hearings were the result of documentation presented by the Health Department.

The firms are charged with allowing excessive smoke to be emitted and unwarranted idling of diesel engines.

ted sanitary code violations in Dutchess.

If the firms named violate the code again they will be subject to fines of up to $1,000 and six months in jail for each violation.

The code applies to all diesel engines except marine diesel and prohibits idling in excess of three consecutive minutes when the truck is not in motion and emissions of smoke which reduces light by more than 20 percent for more than five seconds.

At least eight Cambodian battalions have been virtually wiped out since the Communist dry season offensive opened Nov. 9, and the Communists have begun throttling the capital itself by cutting off major highway access to it.

The army is fumbling because it is badly armed, badly trained and worst of all, badly led. The Cambodians are getting World War II carbines and M79 grenade launchers to fight Communist AK47s and B40 rockets. The army's 70-odd Communist-made artillery pieces are nearly out of ammunition, and the forces have only 28 howitzers to cover the entire country.

Communist Strength Rising Cambodian soldiers and their junior officers are so green that they do not know how to use basic light infantry tactics, like fire-and-movement, and they do not bother to dig simple fortifications or entrench their mortars and cannon.

The army as a whole is still searching, in the words of its official spokesman, Col. Am Rong, for a "classic battle" that the Communists are never likely to give it.

According to numerous people who have strong contacts in the countryside — missionaries, government officials, journalists, intellectuals and businessmen — The Communists even now control villages as close as 10 miles from the capital. They are using their stock "armed propaganda" technique of terror and political control to set up what amounts to a rival administration that is stronger than the central government ever was at the village level.

This is the thing that worries Cambodians the most. As one man here put it recently the Khmer Rouge have already become a force we must reckon with indefinitely. If they continue to grow, eventually we may have to bend our knees to them."

Dr. Link said the hearings were the result of documentation presented by the Health Department.

The firms are charged with allowing excessive smoke to be emitted and unwarranted idling of diesel engines.

Out-of-county firms are involved with the Dutchess County Department of Health because their trucks allegedly committed sanitary code violations in Dutchess.

If the firms named violate the code again they will be subject to fines of up to $1,000 and six months in jail for each violation.

The code applies to all diesel engines except marine diesel and prohibits idling in excess of three consecutive minutes when the truck is not in motion and emissions of smoke which reduces light by more than 20 percent for more than five seconds.

Dr. Link said the hearings were the result of documentation presented by the Health Department.

MAINZ, Germany (UPI) — Eugen Beihl, the West German diplomat kidnapped by Basque nationalists Dec. 1, said his worst moment in captivity was Christmas Eve when it looked like he was going to face Christmas without his family.

Beihl headed for Biarritz, France, near the Spanish border today for a reunion with his wife, Maria de Torres de Beihl and their daughter, Lucia, 20, in San Sebastian, Spain, nearby. It was San Sebastian where Beihl was seized as he drove into the garage of his home more than three weeks ago.

Beihl appeared on nationwide television Friday night from the ZDF Studios at Wiesbaden, across the Rhine River from Mainz.

Obviously under emotional strain, Beihl said he was blindfolded for several days during his captivity. He dabbed frequently at his eyes with a handkerchief during the telecast and almost broke down when asked whether he had a message for his wife and daughter.

"To my wife and daughter, all the best," he said, voice faltering.

ZDF Paris correspondent Albert Gaum arranged Beihl's release from the separatists with the help of two of the company's employees.

Sound engineer Andre Chambrun and assistant cameraman Peter Kruse volunteered to take Beihl's place and the Basques accepted the offer.

A ZDF spokesman said the signal for release of the employees was Beihl's appearance on the ZDF program. The interview was broadcast over the Eurovision Network for screening by the French state television, whose programs can be seen in the Basque region.

Dear Abby

Fiancee Has Doubts

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have been engaged to a very fine widower for nearly a year. He is 68 and I am a few years younger. Two weeks before our wedding date, he started having a little trouble, so he went to his doctor. The doctor found a tumor and ordered him to the hospital for an operation immediately. The tumor was cancerous, and in the last four months, my friend has had two more operations. He seems somewhat better now, and expects me to go ahead with our wedding plans. Do you think he would feel hurt if I were to give him the ring back? I don't think I am up to going thru all the things I may have to endure in the future. What would you do? Please hurry your reply.

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: If I loved the man, I would marry him at once and give him as much happiness as the good Lord allowed us. But obviously that didn't occur to you, so return the ring. Of course he would feel "hurt," but feeling as you do, it would be better than "going thru all you may have to endure" with resentment — instead of love.

DEAR ABBY: I am a pastor's wife and I have a question which I wish you would answer as a favor to me and to all other wives of pastors who are puzzled by this problem: Why don't people invite the pastor and his wife to the wedding and to the wedding rehearsal affairs if they really want them? More often than not, they just "assume" that the pastor and his wife will attend the wedding and the rehearsal party. After the wedding rehearsal, when my husband is on his way out the door, they will run after him and say, "You are staying, aren't you?" Or, "Where is your wife? Isn't she coming?" In order not to embarrass them, my husband usually says, "My wife is tied up." (He should say, "My wife isn't coming because she wasn't invited.")

Why, Abby, shouldn't clergymen and their wives receive invitations like everyone else if they are wanted?

PASTOR'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Many hesitate to send an official invitation to the clergyman and his wife because they fear it might be construed as a hint for a gift. However, if the pastor and his wife are wanted, they should receive a formal invitation, an informally written note, or a telephone call.

DEAR ABBY: Several weeks ago I reported on a fellow employee. An investigation was made and this person was fired. I honestly don't know why I did it because the girl means a great deal to me and I know she trusts me. She has been told by several people that I was responsible for her being discharged, but she refuses to believe it. I feel so guilty now I avoid her at every opportunity. I find it hard to live with myself these days. Should I tell her and ask her forgiveness?

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru INFORMER, Sat. at 9:10 a.m. WKNY-1490)

DEAR INFORMER: Yes.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who leaves a quarter tip for his wife every morning after breakfast?

PUZZLED IN PITTSBURGH
DEAR PUZZLED: He must have bought his breakfast for a long time.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

SATURDAY, DEC. 26, 1970

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have many new ideas and know pretty well how to handle them for advancement and better relations with partners and associates. So don't loiter, but be on the lookout for these potential benefits. Do everything possible to please your usual companion. Be happy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get everything round you in perfect order and then out to make new arrangements with an associate. Exchange views in an intelligent fashion. Get much done and then you can relax in P.M.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your hunches are excellent, so put them to work in today's activities. This will lead to much future progress. Establish more harmonious relations with mate tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Sit down and make plans with mate. Then carry through with them, so that you can both be happier. Put those creative ideas to work so that the future will be much brighter. Show your finest ability.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't be lazy about starting to get house in order after last night's celebration. more company might run in today. Take those exercises that give you more energy. Handle any business matter that is important early.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Delighting associates is first on the agenda right now. Run out and deliver some gift you had forgotten. This can be another happy and active day and P.M. for you provided you drive with utmost care.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Look about you and see what will improve the appearance of your home and get busy giving it those added touches. Ideal day for reconciliation with any members of clan with whom you have disagreed. Show fairness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You know now exactly how to get the data you need and want, and then please your family as they most wish. If you are more alert you can start that uptrend in all of your affairs you desire. Retire early in P.M.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you have a quiet talk with an expert, you are able to handle monetary affairs more wisely and intelligently in the future. Know exactly what you want and how best to get it. Avoid temper tantrums.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are best able to gain the personal wishes you have through the auspices of good friends, so contact them early. Ga dabout socially and get a new perspective. Show that you have both energy and ability.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Talk over with some bigwig how to attain your finest ambitions, and follow advice to the letter. Play just how to gain that information you want and need. Avoid superficial individuals.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Fine new ideas come to you from a good pal, so get together at some inspiring spot and discuss them. Seek out that social group who can help you to expand. Add to whatever knowledge you now possess.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) There are many outside duties to handle and if you get ideas from an expert, they are quickly done. See where you can cut down on expenses. Join mate at some form of amusement that pleases you both.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who has every capability for projecting own ideas, but it is important you teach early to listen to what others have to say also, in order to get the best results throughout the lifetime. Ideal chart for professions that are dissimilar to those of other members of the family. Give the right courses of study, including foreign languages. Spiritual training is good early in life.

SUNDAY, DEC. 27, 1970

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a fine Sunday to wind up whatever you have not been able to complete following the Christmas celebration. Finish preparations for the oncoming New Year's holiday. Getting your ideas better organized for the future is aided by studying newspaper or developing religious services. Think.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day to express yourself in a different fashion and state your aims to persons who can assist you to make them a reality. Plan for travel in the near future. Count the cost.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make your plans now on how to handle personal, business and government matters in the most efficient way during coming week. The New Year will then start on a more successful note. Do some reading tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are able now to carry through conscientiously with promises. Make a good impression on others. Give that career affairs your personal attention without delay.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Much effort is required, but this is a good day for all that work you have ahead of you. Get duties completed swiftly, efficiently. Take those health treatments you have found beneficial.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Pleasing those around you without expecting favors in return is best today, especially with close ties. Enjoy recreations which do not cost much.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Home situations have to be handled tactfully, but conditions can be greatly improved. Get rid of whatever stands in the way of harmony. Taking time for fun is good, also.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Ideal day to improve your consciousness and to return to some of the fine principles you have observed in the past. Do not further irk one who is having troubles; teach not to feel sorry for self, though.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have excellent ideas of a monetary nature, but make sure you do not act upon them until Tuesday. Do not give into demands of friends that would jeopardize present security. Show that you have gumption.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Avoid a risk where your credit or reputation are concerned. Look to influential people for progress. Improving charm and impressing others is wise now. Control your temper.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideal day to get away by yourself and do some tall thinking, then carry on with confidential matters quietly. Know which school of philosophy suits you best and follow it. Don't permit others to put one over on you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Idea day to be with friends you like, provided you do not discuss business but put aside anxieties and enjoy a few happy hours. Use that smile more.

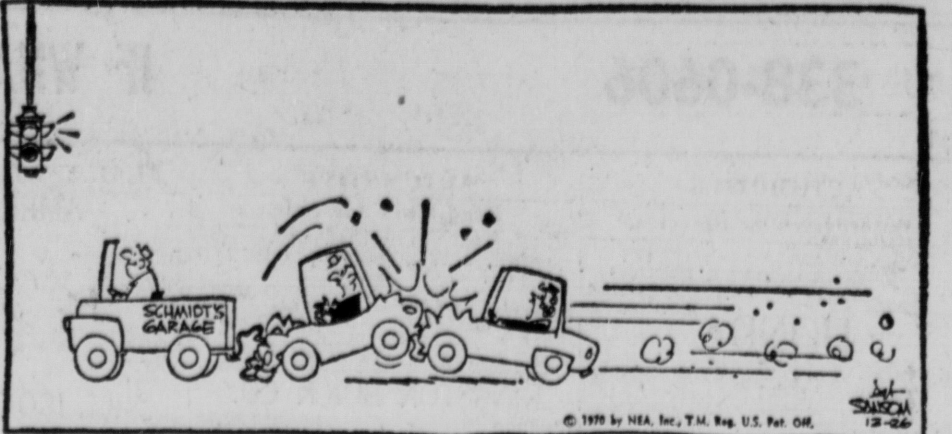

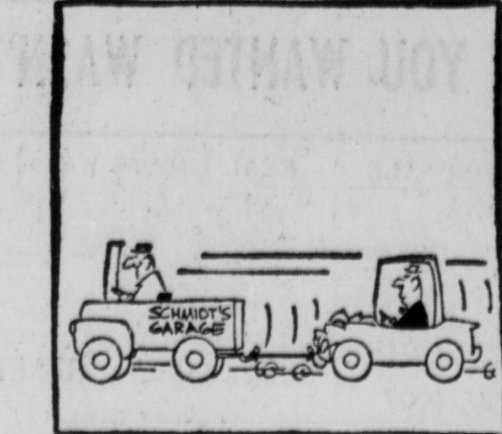

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try not to enter into some argument between an associate and a higher-up, or you could be the one to get hurt. If you show others that you truly like them, you gain their goodwill. Avoid hypocrisy.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who will take an interest in almost anything that is different from what is provided in childhood surroundings, so give the opportunity to study along broadening lines and to travel. Instruct in foreign languages. Teach early not to talk incessantly so trouble can be avoided. Give good spiritual training early and the benefit of right kind sports.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Forecast for your sign for January is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast The Daily Freeman, Box 629, Hollis, Cal. 90028. (© 1970, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

South had passed originally and could not hold more than 13 highcard points so West should have something.

After all that, East played his nine of spades.

West made a valiant effort to make the hand. He led the queen of clubs at trick two. West covered with the king and if East's singleton club had been the jack South would have gone home with all the marbles. As it was he went home with one less trick than he had contracted for.

Council Eyes Negative Approach to Fluoridation

FLUORIDATION REVISITED — The Common Council, if it goes along with this negative idea from the Laws and Rules Committee on fluoridation would merely be following precedent by cleverly ducking the issue.

Judging from Freeman records, fluoridation first came upon the scene in 1952. The Council passed a resolution calling for a referendum on the matter assuming ten per cent of the people who voted in previous gubernatorial election signed a petition. And it died.

Ten years later the Council was faced with the problem again. It was kind of sticky then, developing into a full blown controversy with legions of experts on both sides. Wisely reasoning that since fluoride was a water additive, the alderman passed it over to the water department. And it died.

Fluoridation apparently dies hard. It's back again and just as vexing to the aldermen. The petition route of 1952 seems to be closed if one accepts that mass petitions are a close cousin to public referendums. This council doesn't go for referendums. Don Quick, chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee has taken the position that it's the Council's duty to act on legislation, not pass it to the public. That position would also seem to rule out passing fluoridation to the water board.

But yet, this Council, under the Koenig Administration, has a (well-deserved) reputation for moving legislation. The aldermen are rather proud of that reputation. So proud, that many will be running on it.

And so, they will act on fluoridation, or at least, as the Councils of 1952 and 1962, give the impression of acting on it.

THE VEHICLE will apparently be the negative resolution. As noted in Wednesday's Freeman, negative resolutions are extremely rare. And for good reason. They are extremely confusing. An alderman is put in the position of voting yes when he means no and visa versa.

Also noted in that article on Wednesday was the fact that only one other negative resolution has been offered in the past four years and that city officials couldn't remember what it was about. We couldn't either, but we do remember Alderman-at-Large Bob Gallo carefully explaining and that some of the aldermen reversed their vote after Gallo explained it.

Confusion will be the only result of the vote on fluoridation if the negative resolution maneuver is carried out. It won't be the same as with a positive issue such as city hall when you could ask your alderman how he voted and he could say yes or no. He'll still say yes or no if you ask him after the fluoridation vote but if it was on a negative resolution you'll have to reverse his answer to get his position on that issue.

In deference to Don Quick, Laws and Rules head, currently working up the negative bit, it may have been the only way to get the issue signed out of committee. We don't think Pete Mancuso and John Heitzman, members of the committee opposed to fluoridation, would have signed a positive report. That leaves Quick, Bernie Sims (he might have) and Brian Smith (who knows?).

Odds are Quick wouldn't have signed it anyway. Quick, it is said, would like to be mayor some day. Right now he's second in line behind Gallo. Mayoral hopefuls don't mess around with issues like fluoridation, not with 1,000 signatures against it sitting up in Koenig's office.

We'd like to see the aldermen forget about this negative resolution. If need be, relieve the committee of its duties on the floor of the Council, make a motion in favor of fluoridation and vote on it. At least that way, we won't have to take a course in logic to figure out the voting.

FOR THE RECORD—We failed to mention Mayor Frank Koenig's address before the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in last week's column due to a little space problem.

The mayor, on the 15th, outlined the accomplishments of his administration in a speech that may not have left them in the aisles but was informative.

It is an impressive record of which any interested citizen should be aware. What some of us may not be aware of is Koenig's personal contribution in the form of initiating programs, in getting things moving and keeping them moving. In short, leadership.

We found out, in one particular instance, by way of a mild mayoral blast. It came as a result of our coverage of the Dutch Village story on Tuesday when the mayor revealed the Andretta proposal for $2,000,000 worth of apartments off Flatbush Avenue.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

Koenig had briefed us the day before and had indicated (and we mean, indicated, since Koenig doesn't blow his own horn) that he had been one of the key figures in putting the package together. He didn't mention that in the press conference (no one asked) so we wrote that the new project was an APPARENT result of the mayor's efforts.

Koenig took exception to the use of that word "apparent" which he felt cast some doubt in the public mind as to the extent of his involvement in the project. As we said, the mayor isn't an "I am" kind of guy so we still didn't have a clear picture (from him) on his contribution to the Andretta project so we checked it out although Koenig had told us to "forget it," and found out that the mayor was indeed the moving force behind the project.

The mayor as it turns out, contacted the Andrettas and suggested, the apartment house complex. The Andrettas, it seems, hadn't even given it a thought, but at the prompting of the mayor, investigated the possibility, found it more than feasible, and put together a package.

The new project was definitely a result of the mayor's efforts. Forget the word "apparent."

THE SNOW—We've been informed that the Uptown Businessmen were up in arms on Wednesday about snow removal procedures in their business district, particularly on North Front.

The businessmen were furious with department of public works crews for picking up snow in the middle of Wednesday morning and thus creating traffic jams and keeping customers out of the stores.

One can understand the businessmen's ire. After all, December is their month to make it. Traffic jams, regardless of what causes them, they don't need.

It might also be noted, that according to the mayor, we've had a total (up to Thursday morning) of 38 inches of snow this month. Of course, those 38 inches were spread out over the 125 miles of city streets, not just the uptown shopping district.

Charlie Cole, BPW superintendent, doesn't deny that his snow loading crews may have loused up traffic on Wednesday in the uptown area. By way of telling his side of the story, Cole points out that there are only 15 (heavy) vehicle operators on duty. A third of those men are unable to work extended periods of overtime due to various reasons of health and age.

The guys left, Cole says, worked out to 36 hours straight during the recent storms clearing streets, salting streets and loading snow. The weekend was spent loading snow in front of the numerous houses of worship in the city and the firehouses. Odd, we don't hear any one praising the department for that.

North Front, according to Cole, was to undergo snow loading operations Wednesday and he expected to be out of there by 10 a.m. The snow loader broke down, traffic jams.

When we first heard about the traffic jams caused by the snow loading we immediately wondered why they didn't load snow in the early morning hours when no one is around. The answer, according to Cole, is that his crews can't plow and load snow at the same time.

We sympathize with the businessmen in their living. But then Cole says he's sorry but they're doing the very best we can with what we have under the conditions. There are two sides to every story.

Pope Calls for Brotherhood

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI directed this year's Christmas message of brotherhood to the "secret recesses" of man's conscience—but expressed fear he would be ignored while the world dreads itself with hatred and selfishness.

"We would like to raise our voice and be heard in the secret recesses of every single conscience," the 73-year-old pontiff said Friday in the eighth Christmas message of his reign.

But, he said, he was confronted with "an inner fear, a dramatic doubt" that his message would go unheard by a world he described as "profane and secularized and so allergic to whatever is of a sacred character."

Speaking before a crowd of about 20,000 from the main balcony of St. Peter's Basilica, the Pope said mankind must rid itself of the "centuries-old poison" of selfishness and hate, war and pride, before it becomes free and united.

"You must free yourselves of the centuries-old poison which you carry in your blood, that of selfishness and hate, of conflict as a system, of exclusiveness, of pride and personal and class interest."

Nixon Works on Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon resumed planning today on his budget and legislative program for next year after a quiet Christmas surrounded by family members.

Except for a pre-Christmas hint that the President wanted books, there was no disclosure of what he and the others received. Customarily, however, Nixon gives his wife and daughters jewelry. Gifts were opened in the White House before all sat down to a turkey dinner.

Joining the President and his immediate family were daughter Julie's husband, David Eisenhower, and David's grandmother, Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower. Harvard law student, and frequent escort of Tricia Nixon, Edward Finch Cox didn't join the Nixons for dinner. But reporters persisted that they would announce their engagement before the New Year.

As the First Family gathered for an early roast turkey dinner, pickets protesting the Vietnam War again appeared in front of the White House.

They were from the American Friends Service Committee, a Quaker organization, which also picketed the White House Christmas Eve. The demonstrators carried placards reading "Stop the War" and posters showing Vietnamese children that read, "Every Child is Holy."

After dinner, Nixon, accompanied by everyone except Tricia and Mrs. Eisenhower, flew off to spend the night at the presidential retreat at nearby Camp David. Mr. Tricia remained in Washington.

Several key aides went along for budgetary and legislative consultations.

The informal family dinner capped a hectic holiday season for Nixon. Over the past 11 days, he entertained, at mostly evening affairs, members of Congress, government officials, the White House staff, reporters and various personal and official friends.

Cardinal Seeks Unity

WARSAW (UPI) — Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski, Roman Catholic primate of Poland, has appealed for "understanding, forgiveness and compassion" to heal the wounds caused by the pre-Christmas food riots on the nation's Baltic Coast.

Wyszynski preached his message of goodwill in St. John's Cathedral in Warsaw. It was one of many churches to which the predominantly Roman Catholic Poles flocked Christmas Day.

"We beg of you—do not accuse, show understanding, forgive, feel compassion, put your hands to the plow so there can be more bread in our fatherland," the cardinal said.

Western observers said the cardinal appeared to be accepting a peace offer made by Poland's new Communist party leader, Edward Gierek.

Gierek, who took over from Wladyslaw Gomulka following the rioting over rising food prices, promised the price increases would be rolled back. He also said there was a place in Poland for believers and nonbelievers and that church-state relations should be improved.

In his Christmas Day mass, Wyszynski placed part of the blame for the rioting on the church. Unofficial estimates said more than 50 persons were killed and hundreds injured.

The Faces of Children Give Real Meaning to Yule

BENDING WAAAAAY OVER for a better look at Santa Claus, this curly-headed tyke is wide-eyed as jolly old St. Nick arrives for a visit at the first Christmas party held at the Children's Rehabilitation Center here in Kingston. Jingling sleigh bells and toting a big bag, Santa's appearance brought smiles to some youthful faces, a touch of wonder and awe to others.

DOZENS OF TINY HANDS reach high to grab for snowballs tossed by the bearded old gent in red. Happy faces of those girls and boys who made lucky catches are aglow with the joy that the season of giving brings to the very young. Best thing about these snowballs is that they will never melt; will remain as reminders in the days ahead of the wonderful Christmas party that was.

HANDS CLAPPING in time to the holiday music, smiling youngsters who had come from all over Ulster and Greene Counties for the Rehabilitation Center's party here in Kingston show by their very participation that they're having fun. Whoever said, "Christmas is for kids," was right. (All photos by Milt and Kay Wagenfohr's Cricket Hill Studios).

RAPT ATTENTION marks the expressions on the faces of this group of youngsters at the Children's Rehabilitation Center's party during the holidays. The presents have been distributed from Santa's bag and story telling time is the focus of their undivided attention.

Season's Greetings at Holiday Time From UCCC

17—THE DAILY FREEMAN, DECEMBER 26, 1970

KALEIDOSCOPE OF COLOR pervaded UCCC's "Season's Greeting I" show as it explored new directions in the Visual Arts. This fascinating montage work utilized a scene reproduced around the world in the summer of 1969. The panorama of people was composed of the more than 450,000 rock music pilgrims who trekked to nearby White Lake for the Woodstock festival, history's largest assemblage of the young.

DECK THE WALLS with banners bright was the order of the holidays as Ulster County Community College art students put their works on exhibit and sale this month. The walls of the Visual Arts Gallery on campus proliferated with colorful banners and wall hangings made by students. One of the most attractive was this eye-catching design by a student in the Art 205 class.

THE WORD "FREEDOM" produces a lively image in this work by an art student at UCCC. It was on display in the year end "Season's Greetings I" exhibit and sale at the Stone Ridge campus. Show was aimed at Communicating the holiday atmosphere of hope, good cheer and peace.

WE GOT A BOOT out of this unusual idea for an artistic design by a student exhibiting in the UCCC holiday show. The laughing lady encased in a shoe from neck to knee could be the life of the party at an apres-ski shindig, but she might find it difficult to kick up her heels next summer at the beach.

FOR CENTURIES, the Christmas season has been marked with the phrase, "Peace on earth." But since the division over Vietnam in the U. S. first occurred, Yuletide peace and wartime peace have been interwoven by young people. The UCCC art student responsible for this work in the holiday show on campus has used the seasonal message as the center-piece of a jig-saw puzzle concept of Christmas 1970. # Looking for Israel's Look-Alike FESS PARKER as Daniel Boone indulges in a little hand-wrestling with Darby Hinton as his son Israel, in this scene from television's "Daniel Boone" series. Currently, Channel 6 is sponsoring an Israel Boone Look-Alike Contest and, among the 20 finalists, are three Ulster County youngsters — all of whom look so much like Israel, they might well be descendants.

JONATHAN LYNCH, eight-years-old and a third grader at Marbletown School, is one of the finalists in the Israel Boone Look-Alike Contest. The High Falls youngster bears a striking resemblance to youthful actor, Darby Hinton, who plays Israel on television.

JOHN RELL JR., five-year-old son of the John Rells Sr., of Route 1, Saugerties, is another local lad who's the "spittin' image" of talented Darby Hinton, TV's Israel Boone. Though born in the 20th century, he looks like a chip off the old Boone block from Kentucky's pre-statehood days. John's a student in the kindergarten class at Grant D. Morse School, Blue Mountain.

It all began back in late October when children watching at home were invited to enter a just for fun contest. As outlined by TV's Channel 6, the competition was open to all children between the ages of five and 15. If they felt they looked like Darby Hinton, the youngster who plays Daniel Boone's adventurous son, Israel, on the "Daniel Boone" TV series—they were invited to send in their picture to the upstate broadcasting company.

Since Channel 6 shows the Daniel Boone show Monday through Saturday at 4:30 p.m., more than a few youngsters are home from school—and more than a few decided they wanted to take a crack at the contest.

Between Oct. 22 when the contest began and Nov. 23 when it closed, Channel 6 was flooded with more than 1,200 entries from blonde little boys with a bit of the frontier in their blood. At deadline time, judges sat down and picked 20 finalists—all of whom had the pert look and pioneering appeal of Israel Boone, a boy who shows no fear of war-painted Indians or red-coated British soldiers.

The finalists came from such diverse areas as Massachusetts, Albany, Schenectady, Troy and other points in northern New York, to Kingston and other areas south. Among them were three Ulster County youngsters, who had reason to be excited by all the action.

The three—Jonathan Lynch of High Falls and James Bishop and John Rell Jr., both of Saugerties, have had a ball so far. And, before the final voting is over, one of them may yet emerge as the winner of the "Israel Boone Look Alike Contest."

Earlier this month, the trio of local youths — along with other finalists—were invited up to Channel 6 (technically known as WRGB-TV) headquarters in Schenectady for refreshments, presents, and a little work. Four television spots were produced, starring the finalists in groups of five. Each of the youngsters sports a number, in the spots, and home viewers are currently being invited to vote for the number of the child they feel looks like Israel Boone, as reincarnated in the person of actor Darby Hinton.

Since the voting ends Dec. 30, TEMPO urges its readers to take a long look at Ulster's three contenders and then tune in and pick them out of the lineup, shown twice a day on Channel 6 — every day, six days a week from Monday through Saturday, until month's end.

Since the spots do not identify the kids by name or home town, compare their TEMPO pictures with their screen likenesses — matching faces with numbers—and then cast your vote by post card to WRGB for your favorite Ulster "twin" of Israel. And don't forget your own name and address.

At voting's end, the winner will receive a color TV of his very own worth almost $400.

There will also be a drawing for all those who voted in the contest, and one of them will win a matching color television just like the one won by the Look-Alike.

Votes are coming in hot and heavy, says Channel 6, and are expected to surpass the more than 1,200 entries from original contestants by a sizable number.

So get in there and support our local talent against all that competition from elsewhere. Winners will be announced within a day or two after the final votes are in on Dec. 30. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

JAMES BISHOPP, 11-years-old and a sixth grader at Grant D. Morse Elementary School, in Blue Mountain, looks enough like Israel Boone, as played by Darby Hinton, to get himself kidnapped by unfriendly Indians. The blonde Saugerties youngster is also a finalist in the Channel 6 competition.

Going Victorian to 'Ring Out the Old'

On New Year's Eve exciting things will be happening in Woodstock. In the Town Hall theatre-lovers, fun-lovers and nostalgics will be "ringing out the old" with something very old itself. Rags to Riches, a classic Victorian melodrama, will open and as the curtain goes up the clock will roll back to a bygone era of gaslight and ragtime, passion and sentiment, vaudeville, villainy, and virtue triumphant. Performing Arts of Woodstock, in offering this production, is continuing its tradition of gala openings on New Year's Eve. In anticipation of this event, TEMPO interviewed director Steve Callahan to delve into the show's background.

This is the fourth play Callahan has directed for PAW since coming to the area in 1968. Area audiences will remember his moving production of Faulkner's As I Lay Dying which opened that New Year's Eve. This was followed last year by a merry romp through great dramatic literature as Steve and his talented wife, Julia, brought the battle of the sexes to the stage in Adam Plus One. His most recent effort was in two original avant-garde one-acts by local playwright Ron Radice — Gem of the Ocean and Pickpocket.

TEMPO: From the avant-garde to the 19th century is quite a jump. Why did PAW decide to do an old show like this? Their emphasis in the past has been on more serious drama — experimental works, original plays, classics. Why the change of pace?

CALLAHAN: Exactly that, partly — for a change of pace. We feel that for us to fulfill our duties to the community we should provide as varied a theatrical fare as possible. It's important to balance the serious with the light, the modern with the old.

Rags to Riches is first of all intended to be fun. We've found it enormous fun to work on and we're sure the audience will love it. But also it exemplifies a very significant type of drama that pervaded the American stage throughout its most dynamic era. We feel that history is important to any living theatre. By producing plays of other eras we provide a perspective against which contemporary drama takes on fuller meaning. And, of course, people in this area have a very strong sense of history; I think Rags to Riches will appeal to that.

TEMPO: Speaking historically, what's the background of melodrama? Is it really that important as a dramatic form?

CALLAHAN: The term "melodrama" goes back to about 1780. In France it originally meant a play in which music and drama had equal importance — I suppose this was a step toward the modern concept of "total theatre" where all arts are blended into one performance. Rousseau's Pygmalion was the first to be called "melodrama". The term gradually lost its musical connotation and took on the qualities we now associate with it — the conflict of virtue and vice, great suspense, sentimentalism, and elaborate spectacle. The villain is vital to a melodrama. It is he, rather than the hero, who is the prime mover of the action. This is the principal difference between melodrama and tragedy. Also, of course, melodramas usually have a "happy ending". By mid 19th century this style was prevalent everywhere. Gilbert de Pixerecourt did more to popularize this type of drama than almost anyone else. He wrote literally hundreds of plays like this, and they were done all around the world.

In America melodrama began about 1830 and didn't really die out until World War I, though the great "Age of Melodrama" was from 1870 to 1910. That's why we think of them as part of the "gaslight era". This was a period of fantastic theatrical activity. In New York City alone there were four to five times as many legitimate theatres as there are now, not to mention the hundreds of troupes that performed in every village and mining camp across the country. This was as close to a truly popular theatre as the world has ever known. Of course other styles were done — particularly Shakespeare — but the staple diet of this vast and hungry audience was the melodrama. Boucicault, Belasco, Fitch, Moody, were playwrights to conjure with then. They, like many, many others, were really men of the theatre, not just authors. That's why the old shows seem to step so readily onto a stage.

TEMPO: Charles A. Taylor wrote Rags to Riches. Would it be gross ignorance to admit unfamiliarity with him?

CALLAHAN: No, not at all. Actually it's the only play of this that I've found. It's not unusual, though, for a good playwright of the time to have no existing scripts at all.

Melodramas are sometimes called "America's lost plays" because, of the thousands which were written, relatively few remain. Of course a lot of the ones we have are pretty bad from any literary point of view. Rags to Riches, though, is a fine script. The plot is tight, the characters much more well-rounded and realistic than was usually the case. By the way, this play was written as a vehicle for Laurette Cooney, whom we know better as Laurette Taylor — yes, the same Laurette Taylor who made such a comeback in Glass Menagerie.

You see, Charles Taylor was her husband, and he wrote this play for Laurette's debut in New York. She played Flossie, the heroine, of course. In some respects it's the story of her own rise from poverty. Charles Taylor even wrote himself into the play, as "Prince" Charlie, the villain.

TEMPO: How do you think a modern audience will react to this style?

CALLAHAN: I hope they'll

RICK RICHARDS is directing the olios between the acts of "Rags to Riches." He has first-hand knowledge of such things, having grown up in a family of vaudeville performers. In addition, he composed some of the comic operas that will be used in the olios.

MARK WEINBERG stars as the hero in two comic operas, as a baggy pants comedian, and as master of ceremonies for "Rags to Riches," the Victorian melodrama being presented by Performing Arts of Woodstock in January.

The Holiday Season

For Scandinavians:
It's Long and Gay

THESE YOUNGSTERS on a picturesque Danish farm will be excused from their chores on Christmas Eve. Traditionally, Danish children are served rice porridge sprinkled with cinnamon and a piece of butter in the center and raspberry juice that night at dinner. An old custom is the hiding of an almond in the rice porridge, with the finder being awarded a prize — usually candy.

Scandinavians love Christmas. And to prove it, they celebrate the holiday longer than any other place in the world. Festivities begin in late November and continue through mid January with Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden each observing its own special Christmas traditions.

Christmas Eve and the 25th of December are the big family events of the year in Denmark. The traditional Christmas Eve dinner is a delight to the eye as well as to the palate. Rice porridge sprinkled with cinnamon and a piece of butter in the center and raspberry juice. Succulent roast goose stuffed with apples and prunes and served with red cabbage and small potatoes. An old custom is the hiding of an almond in the rich porridge. Its finder will be awarded a prize, possibly a marzipan pig.

After dinner it is the custom for all to join hands and dance around the candlelit tree singing some of the old Danish Christmas hymns. Then comes the time for the brightly colored gift packages to be exchanged about the tree. Sometimes the "Yule Man" enters with gifts in his bag, a member of the family having dressed up as a Santa with a long white beard and red cap. An equally familiar figure in Danish homes is the "Nisse", a gnome-like symbol, who is found all over where the holiday spirit prevails, to help Santa in his very busy schedule.

Finland Starts Early

Christmas celebrating begins early in Finland — on the last Sunday of November, called "Little Christmas". The Finns are good with their hands and the traditional Christmas ornaments are made in the home with reeds, straw and wood shavings.

On Christmas Eve the custom is for a visit to the sauna to precede a lavish meal. The main dish is usually a great ham. Prior to this, there is a dish of "lutfisk", specially prepared cod served with cream sauce and boiled potatoes.

Christmas morning dawns with church services at 7 a.m. Boys roam the countryside portraying the wise men of the East and singing Christmas songs. On December 26th, St. Stephen's Day, horse races are held along snowdecked country roads. It is a day for visiting relatives and friends and in the evening there is music and dancing.

Norway's Christmas extends over a period of 13 days — from Christmas Eve until the "Day of the Three Wise Men" on Jan. 6. But the preparations start weeks ahead. The "Christmas Pig" is customary and every part of the animal is used for some traditional holiday dish. There are sausages, hams, cutlets, ribs and pickled feet.

Ham Traditional Dinner

On the farms all work ceases at four o'clock in the afternoon of Dec. 24 when the church bells announce the beginning of the period of "Christmas peace". A ham dinner is followed by coffee and cakes and as many as 14 different kinds of cookies.

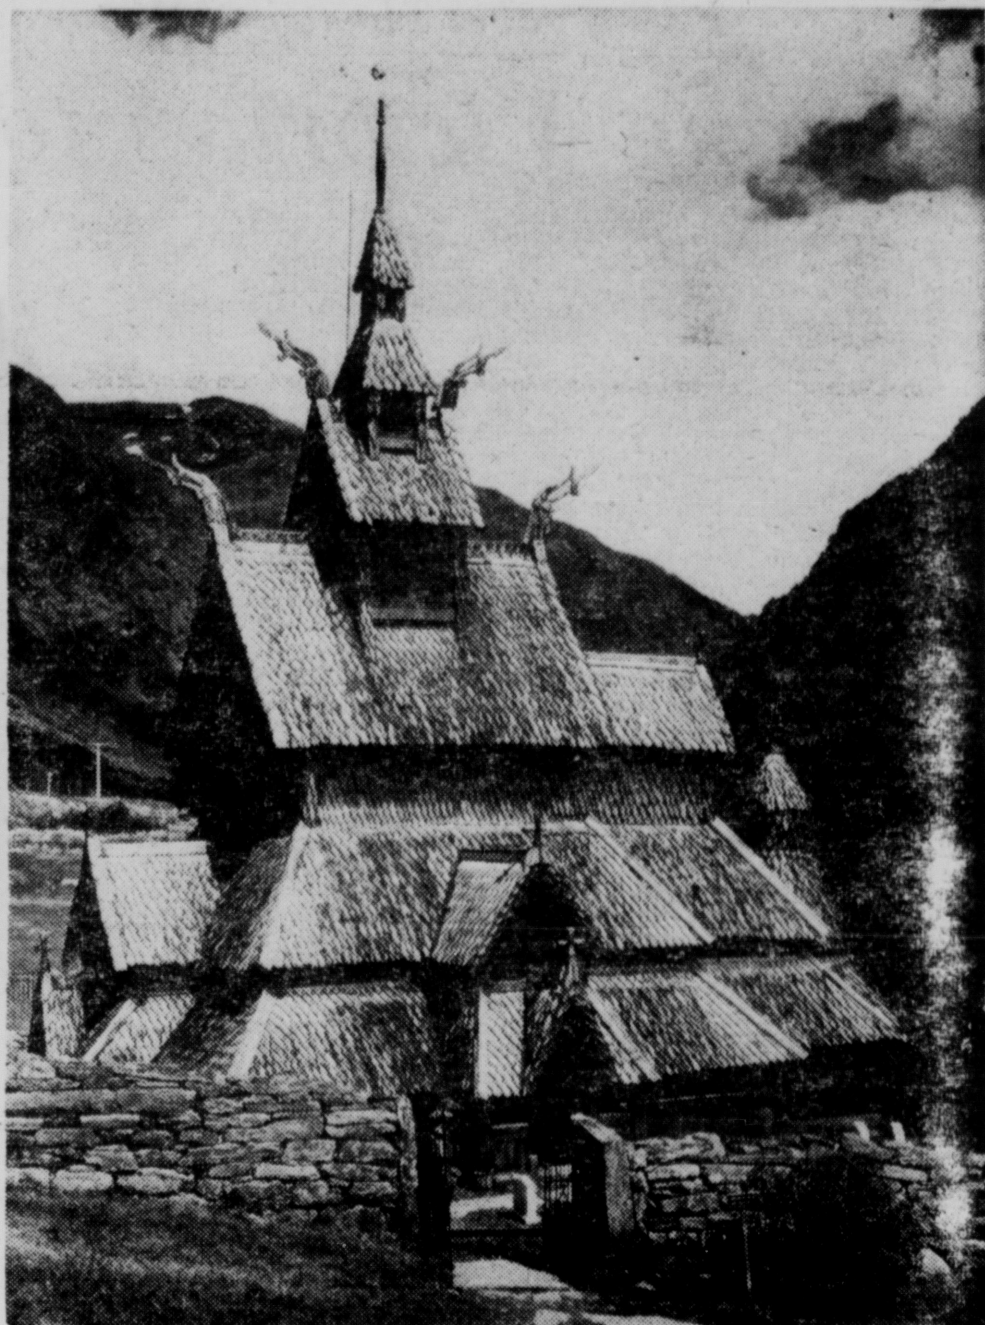

Early morning church services open the first day of Christmas followed by a family gathering. December 26, called "Second Day Christmas", marks the part of the holidays when there is dancing, music and revelry. Guests bring some of their own Christmas bounty to share with their hosts. To end the season, children invite their friends the first week in January to Christmas tree parties and dress in outlandish costumes and go from house to house on goodies collecting expeditions, just as Halloween in the U.S.

St. Lucia Day on Dec. 13 is generally regarded as the harbinger of the Christmas season in Sweden and Jan. 13 traditionally marks the end.

In the St. Lucia festival, old and new blend harmoniously. Lucia was a martyred Christian maiden who later became a favorite of the Vikings because the day of her martyrdom signaled the coming of lighter days under the old Julian calendar. To celebrate the day, families are awakened in the dark morning by the eldest daughter who is attired in a white flowing gown and a crown of lighted candles. She sings a song called Santa Lucia and serves coffee and newly baked Lucia buns. The ceremony is

EARLY MORNING CHURCH SERVICES open the first day of Christmas; are followed by a family gathering in Norway. And few would not want to attend services in the Borgund Stave Church near Laerdal in Norway's Fjord Country. Quaint and charming, with a Christmasy look year round, it was built in 1138; and is one of the finest and best preserved of all these venerable buildings.

OSBERG LONGSHIP, excavated in 1904, is the best preserved Viking ship in the world; is now on display at Oslo, Norway's Viking Ship Museum. Viking influence still serves as the harbinger of holiday season in Norway when St. Lucia Day appears on the calendar on Dec. 13. This festival day is a salute to Lucia, a martyred Christian maiden who later became a favorite of the Vikings. Today, the eldest daughter of Norwegian families plays a major part in the celebration of this day.

THE PINE FORESTS and peaks of Norway provide the perfect landscape background for Christmas. This particular mountain range covers 224 square miles, and the whole area is now a national park — Norway's first. Norwegians and tourists alike take advantage of the Yule holidays to roam at will, try the unclimbed peaks, view and panorama of untrammelled fjordsides, giant peaks, glistening glaciers, remote valleys, sparkling waterfalls and peaceful lakes.

On the Day After Christmas the Dustman Collected

'Twas the day after Christmas and all through the house not a creature was stirring — except Boxing Day beneficiaries.

They were the lamplighter, postman, milkman, paper boy, constable, butcher, baker, and candlestick maker — all the tradesmen and servants who had taken care of customers throughout the year. Now they were collecting their traditional Christmas gratuities through the neighborhood.

This view of Boxing Day at its height in the gaslight world of yesterday no longer pictures one of England's most appreciated holidays the National Geographic Society tells Tempo.

Now Dying Out
Charity and good will to the less fortunate still give a warm feeling to December 26th in Britain, but the old "boxing" custom has largely died out.

Englishmen today — the lord of the manor as well as the dustman — spend the day resting up after the Christmas rush and feasting, or vigorously pursue relaxation by taking in a rugby game, hiking in the country, or going to see a play or pantomime.

Boxing Day never caught on in the American Colonies, swept by the Revolution just as many imported English ways were gaining a foothold. It is a holiday in Britain and other lands settled by Englishmen.

Boxing Day may have started in the Middle Ages when priests opened the church alms box and gave the money to the poor on St. Stephen's Day, December 26 on religious calendars.

Cosby Does Solo For David Frost On 'New Career'

Comedian Bill Cosby will tell the David Frost audience why he is giving up his successful television series to pursue a career in education. He will be the sole guest of the Frost show Monday, Jan. 4, at 4:30 p.m. on WNHC-TV, Channel 8 on the dial.

Talking with Frost, Cosby will confess that he has wanted to be a teacher since he was 20, but military service and the support of his family intervened. Now that he has become a star, he feels he can afford to realize his long-time ambition to work with young people.

The show will feature Cosby detailing his personal approach to comedy, including several incidents from the early days of his life and career. He will also discuss with Frost his ideas on raising children and bring up some of the "dumb" questions parents often ask their children.

Later in the program Cosby will suggest that a comedian has a rougher time than a singer because, "You can't dedicate a joke to some pretty woman up front."

prentices, and servants started keeping their own boxes, usually earthenware, where they stored the year's savings and donations from customers, employers, and patrons.

A box also was taken aboard every vessel that sailed out of port near Christmas. From time to time the sailors dropped contributions into the box, which was opened when the ship reached home port.

The collection usually was contributed to some needy parishoner, who paid for a mass to be said for all mariners.

Show Goes On.

In cities, Boxing Day usually opens the English pantomime season. In London and other city theaters, curtains still go up on an afternoon of Mother Goose and Dick Whittington delighting small children with slapstick comedy.

Boxing Day is also a day of leftovers, of cold food and sandwiches after Christmas feasting.

Not long ago in some country parishes, clergymen were expected to provide bread, cheese, and ale for all their parishoners, and on many farms great pies were cut up and sent around to farm workers.

Through the years, Boxing Day tipping has not been without its critics. In 1721, the noted writer Jonathan Swift complained he was "simply undone" by the boxes being passed around, and also because the attendants at his coffeehouse raised their annual fee to a whole crown.

However, he admitted paying the tips for fear of seeming cheap and ungrateful.

ELLIOTT GOULD gets carried away in this scene from M.A.S.H., the hilarious comedy about army surgeons during the Korean War. The film, which co-stars that fast-rising talent, Donald Sutherland, and features nine professional football stars turned actor for the first time, is the current attraction at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre.

MOVIES

Catch-22

Readers by the millions put Joseph Heller's black comedy novel, "Catch-22," on the best seller list for months on end. Now the book has become a mammoth, major movie — directed by the acclaimed Mike Nichols and with a cast that would make any casting director dance three Irish jigs up on Cloud 9.

It's now playing at Kingston's Community; has most probably settled in for a fairly long run. The $22 million it cost to produce has been well spent. A brilliantly lunatic film about a U.S. bomber squadron in Italy during World War Two, it's one great movie. Such updated satire is rare indeed these days on the motion picture screens of America.

Alan Arkin as Heller's hero, Captain Yossarian, gives an inspired performance as a man making his bid to escape from war, stupidity and all those practices of humankind that have messed up our world. While the comedy in "Catch-22" is hilarious, it is also chilling, cold and savage and—at times—we found ourselves wondering why we were moved at all to laugh about the sickness of the modern world. Then we realized it was the same kind of uneasy laughter "Dr. Strangelove" had evoked.

His Finest Role

The feverish brain of Captain Yossarian is at the center of this poetic film about bloody violence, and Arkin makes of this role his finest performance. He's a Don Quixote clashing with the propellers of a B-25 bomber instead of a windmill, and he delivers his cryptic dialogue with finesse.

The rest of the cast is superb, too. Among the many fine performances, stand-outs include Anthony Perkins as Chaplain Tappan, Richard Benjamin as Major Danby, Jon Voight as Milo Minderbinder — super-capitalist, comic Bob Newhart — unbelievably good as a neurotic major named Major, and Art Garfunkel (of the Simon & Garfunkel singing-composing team), showing himself a fine actor in the role of the naive Nately — who falls in love with a street-walker and wants to take her home after the war.

Totally marvelous in minor characterizations are Orson Welles, Martin Balsam, Paula Prentiss, Jack Gilford and Martin Sheen—all of whom help to make this tale of a small group of flyers on a tight little island community in the Mediterranean in 1944 a great film.

Sincere thanks to the Community Theatre for providing such top-notch holiday entertainment via "Catch-22," a movie as modern as a moonshot and with a timeless theme as old as anarchy.

M.A.S.H.

If "Catch-22" is one of the best American films of the year, "M.A.S.H." is of the same caliber. It has been hailed as "the best U.S. war comedy since sound came in."

Now playing at Kingston's Mayfair for what may develop into a fairly long run, it is indeed an irreverent look at war. Its trio of stars—Donald Sutherland, Elliott Gould and Tom Swerrett — have been perfectly cast; turn in fabulous performances.

The three are army surgeons who develop a lunatic life-style in order to function and keep their sanity amid the everyday horrors encountered in a mobile army surgical hospital (M.A.S.H.) during the Korean War. They are skilled and dedicated in their profession, but they are equally skilled in making a total shambles of army bureaucracy.

A Private War

Gould and Sutherland prove their star quality in this brilliantly savage service comedy. They deliver mightily and the result is a superb comedy that has all the earmarks of a classic. Gould's characterization of an eccentric, cynical surgeon will remind many of Yossarian in Heller's novel, "Catch-22." He carries on his own private guerrilla war with the establishment in an effort to preserve some enduring human values in a world seemingly gone mad.

Sutherland and Skerritt, too, give sensitive performances — their comic roles embellished with serious overtones. And the direction by Robert Altman is Oscar material. Particularly impressive are his sense of comic timing, his visual economy, and the controlled manner in which he is able to pile casual perception (for the surgeons, the wounded are just faceless bodies to be repaired) and minor details (the wounded constantly being carted in by helicopter) on top of each other until he achieves a nightmarish effect that is at once hilarious, subversive, and chilling.

This is black, bloody, funny humor—often blasphemous and obscene, but always hip. It is a metaphor for and of our times, with the visual puns flying at a rapid pace. Humor and originality "M.A.S.H." has!

ALAN ARKIN as the zany Yossarian is restrained by a friend in "CATCH 22," the hilarious World War II comedy now playing at Kingston's Community. One of the major movies of the year, it cost $22-million — which accounts in part for the fact that it has settled in locally for what is expected to be a lengthy run into mid-January.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

Cornmeal boiled in water — stale and warm — for New Year's dinner. That's the penalty for parents who fail to take kiddies to Herman's Nursery in Poughkeepsie at least once during Christmas holidays. It's an enchanted fairyland with animated dwarfs, scores of twinklin' stars, life-size Santas, Dancer and Donder, Vixen and Blitzen, outdoor rides and live animals.

Recently spotted on block-long line waitin' to see display were Harry and Florence Studt, the Frank Longs, Nick and Rose Morris—(all of whom have our OK for fowl in-lieu-of-mush for New Year's entree).

With so much to see, temptations prompt onlookers to touch and to feel. BUT clever little warnings sprinkled here and there discourage same: "If you pick me up and break me, you pay for me and take me." AND: "Lovely to look at, a pleasure to hold, but should you break it, then it's sold." Glittering array is truly worth the trip. "Yule" love it!

Who said you're off-your-trolley if you deck your hall with boughs and holly — use mistletoe? St. Joseph's school hall used boughs and holly last Saturday and even mistletoe couldn't have added to the decor.

Affair was first of what promises to be MANY Christmas galas with area Fred Astaires leading local Ginger Rogers around polished dance floor with graceful finesse to music of Harry Maisenhelder and his boys — of — renown. Cuttin' some mean rugs were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wiands, Helen and Bob Ross, the Bob Beberwyks, Roland and Betty Augustine, the Jim Rapps — and with equal time, the Bill Kellys — Tommy Davitt and Janet Lasher, the Dick Vredenburgs, Harold Reis, the Bill Stalls.

Bill and Helene Phillips had a party of 24 and the Tom Gallaghers were there with a group of 14. Tom who used to be with A. Carr and Son is now a casket salesman. "Tho we really 'dig' his company, we dread bein' on his Christmas list!

The Clair Sheaffers — Arthur Murray alumni — danced every number whether waltz, Paul Jones or Alley Cat and their steps were purr-fect.

Frank Argulewicz with wife Irma was chairman of soiree. Of course, Parents Association president Don MacIsaacs knew what he was doin' when he made selection; fireman Frank is used to givin' his all and church benefits really set him "afire." This year's success, undoubtedly, assures him the job in '71.

There were no plain Janes at that shindig. Gals were all gussied up, transformed from Saturday afternoon plucked chickens to Saturday night struttin' peacocks. Midnight buffet provided extra pizzaz for final dance sets — and parents who didn't make the scene missed a mass o' merry-makin'.

Back to Don MacIsaac, rumor has it Don ALWAYS gets handed the "tough" tasks. Understand he was enlisted to take Miss New York State and Miss Ulster County out to dine after guest appearances at Rondout Savings Bank's Christmas party. Bein' wed to former Miss Massachusetts, suppose bank officials figured he was most adept in parley department. At same bank party, Jim Thompson played Santa — to a "T." if you know what we mean. What we'd like to know tho' is WHAT Dave Rylance was askin' Santa for when he was caught sittin' on Santa's copious lap?

really get "a tear for every smile, a smile for every tear." We've tried to be faithful to the play and the period. Often old melodramas (or cheap modern imitations) are done as complete spoofs — totally hoked up. Rags to Riches has its share of laughs, but we haven't let "the moustache" twirl the villain — by which I mean we've kept the characters as real as possible and are playing in as true an approximation to the style of the time as we can. People tend to scoff at sentiment today, yet you'd be surprised at how truly moving some of the moments in the show can be if you just relax into the spirit of the play. Why, when Flossie sweetly listens to the troubles of a down and outer (whom she doesn't recognize as her long-lost father) — all to the gentle strains of Hearts and Flowers — it would soften the worst cynic's heart. That may sound facetious, but honestly scenes like that can be very affecting. So when you come, bring along a few hankies.

Family Smorgashbord

December 24th and Christmas Day, however, connote the high point of the season. The Christmas Eve dinner, strictly a family affair, begins with smorgashbord, followed by cod fish and ham as the main courses. Rice porridge ends the meal and is followed by the handing out of gifts.

Pre-dawn religious services, "Julotta", are observed throughout Sweden on Christmas Day which thereafter is a day of rest. The season officially ends on January 13 with the "dancing out of Christmas" which for the young means the plundering of the tree and a final party when each participant receives a bag of goodies.

So, as the Danes say: "Glaedelig Jul", the Finns "Hyvaa Joulua", the Norwegians and the Swedes "God Jul"! This is the Scandinavian way of wishing everyone a "Merry Christmas"!

TEMPO: Rags to Riches is longish show the smallest billed as a family show, and it sounds like there's something for all ages — sentiment, suspense, music.

CALLAHAN: Yes, murder, plotting, abduction, rooftop chases, the broken family reunited, the just reward for honesty, not to mention all the vaudeville routines in the ollos. All in all it amounts to about three hours of fun and excitement at rock-bottom prices — $2, $1.50 for students, and 50 cents for children. With a to reserve your table for the unprecedented NEW YEAR'S EVE PARTY at ROBERTO'S ... but the remaining reservations are going fast. And no wonder; half of Ulster County is talking about the "Night to Remember" we've cooked up for you, from the stroke of 10 P.M. to the break of dawn!

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

STILL TIME

We'll not only have DANCING for the New Year, to the music of MARK GARRISON and brother JOHN, but also a tuneful, high-stepping FLOOR SHOW featuring most of the talented "Volunteers" who have made our "Saturday Soirees" the Show-Time of the Kingston area.

Plus, of course, the gourmet STEAK DINNER, the Hats, Favors, Noisemakers ... and the Happiest New Year's celebrations in town ... all for only $10 per person (exclusive of tax, gratuities and Drinks.)

By the way: We'll be serving our regular Dinner at regular prices on Thursday evening, 5 to 8 P.M., which will allow us to start setting up for the Party about 9:30.

SCENE AT ROBERTO'S

Somehow, I seem to detect a "Woman's Lib" influence in the report of a recent Luncheon Party at ROBERTO'S, celebrating all these various occasions: "Bon Voyage" to Dorothy Elston, who is off on an African safari; "Au Revoir" to the Ann Spiesmans and Adela Martins, off to their new homes on the sunny shores of Florida; a "See you when you get back" to the Esther Nagles, who will be touring that same state; a "Welcome Home" to the Esther Deans, back from Spain and Nassau; "Stay Well" to the Sylvia Spiegels (he has recuperated enough to finish his rest in Florida); and to the Virginia Campinellis, "Staying right here and enjoying the food and service at ROBERTO'S." Thanks for the plug, Virginia! * * * Mr. and Mrs. Whitey Burger, of Ulster Park, tendered son Tom a double party, to mark his Birthday and his leaving for active duty in the armed service; helping him to celebrate were sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Fredd Zinn, Jr., of Kingston, and sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kennedy, of Hyde Park. * * * Mr. and Mrs. Dey Demarest, of Saugerties celebrating their 17th Wedding Anniversary, with guests: Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Losaw, and Mr. and Mrs. James Ellithorpe, all of Saugerties. * * * Ahoy, there! A Christmas Party to shiver your timbers, by the "Hidden Harborettes," of Esopus, members of the Hidden Harbor Yacht Club Auxiliary and their honored guest, President Betty Williams. In the words of Chairman Mel Schefel: "Delicious dinner in most festive atmosphere and to top the evening off, a song by our own Geraldine. Too bad Christmas comes only once a year." * * * Another Wedding Anniversary, the 35th, for Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bonville, of Port Ewen. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Sleight and Mrs. Ethel Howard, of Port Ewen; Mrs.

Edward Kiernan and daughter Virginia, of Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kiernan, of High Falls, plus Michael McGowan, Maureen Weber, Michele Bonville, and other guests from Albany, Colonie, Clifton Falls and Cohoes. * * * The party reported by Patricia Rust, of Ulster, was a combination of a Faculty Christmas Party (that being Faculty and Friends, of John F. Kennedy High School) and the Retirement Dinner for Mary Young, with Principal Donald Shambo presenting the "Bye Bye Bouquet" to Miss Young. Our best wishes join theirs!

* * * If some names seem to crop up rather often in this "column", it's partly because they choose to be here so often, and also because they're one big, happy family. For instance, last Saturday found Miss Eileen and Mom Dempsey here with Mrs. Catherine Perry and daughter Cookie, Nancy Griggs and Kathy Corcoran, also on hand, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Corcoran. And Richard Griggs III enjoying dinner with his parents. To clue you: Mrs. Dempsey, Mrs. Griggs and Mrs. Corcoran are sisters of Mrs. Perry; and I'm glad they like to do their "Happy Familying" at ROBERTO'S!

SEASON'S GREETINGS

My little effort at a multilingual Christmas Greeting last Saturday brought reminders that I left out a few nationalities: "Joyeux Noel" for the French, "Kala Hrestugiena" for the Greeks, "Glad Jul" for the Scandinavians, etc. Sorry ... next year I'll look 'em all up!

So for my New Year's Greeting, instead of trying to figure out how to express the sentiment in different languages, I think one little word will suffice: PEACE! The French pronounce it "Paix," in Spanish it's "Paz," and we Italians say "Pace" ... all from a little Latin word, "Pax." The Germanic tongue has it "Frieden," the Scandinavians come near that with "Fred" and the Hollanders with "Vrede." The Jews (and the Arabs) say "Shalom" ... and there are a dozen others I can neither decipher nor pronounce. But however you say "PEACE," that's the way I want to say it; and that's the best thing I can wish to you and YOU and YOU for the New Year

*It's Become an Annual Event
After a Decade of Success*

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ten years ago a major tire manufacturing company produced a Christmas album for its customers and anyone who visited one of its stores.

The album featured established recording artists and the familiar carols and seasonal tunes. It was offered at a low price.

This promotion campaign met with such success that the company, Goodyear, made the issuance of a Christmas album an annual event.

Best of the Greats

The current album, "Best of the Great Songs of Christmas by Great Artists of Our Times," is a selection of 14 pieces from the nine preceding LPs.

Most of the artists record for Columbia Records, which pressed these special albums for Goodyear. Among them are Andy Williams ("Do You Hear What I Hear?"), Barbra Streisand ("Silent Night"), Steve Lawrence ("The Night Before Christmas"), Percy Faith ("The Little Drummer Boy"), Doris Day ("Toyland"), Mahalia Jackson ("Away In a Manger") and Ray Conniff ("We Wish You a Merry Christmas"). Petula Clark, who records for Warner Bros. 7 Arts, sings "Happiest Christmas." And Tony Bennett sings "The Christmas Song."

Anna Mollo of the Metropolitan Opera is a student on "Joy to the World" and Isaac Stern's violin is the instrument for "Ave Maria." Another Met star, Richard Tucker, sings "The Lord's Prayer." Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic fill the room with great sound on "Carol of the Bells." One of the favored carols is the album opener "First Noel," sung by John Davidson.

A Bargain Price

Like the others, this album may be purchased from any of the tire company's retail stores at the suggested price of $1.

Andy Williams and his brothers may be heard on another fine LP, "Christmas Album" (Barnaby Z 30095). Most of the songs are seasonal, such as "White Christmas," but there is an excellent medley of carols.

Other recommended albums are "Christmas with Tammy" by Tammy Wynette (Epic E 30343) and "Santa Claus is Comin' to Town" an hour-long program starring Fred Astaire, Mickey Rooney and Kennan Wynn.

"Christmas with Ogden Nash" (Caedmon TC 1323) probably will appeal more to adults although children will find his verses enchanting. Nash's humor is somewhat biting in the long poem, "The Christmas that Almost Wasn't," which occupies the entire first side of the record. Christmas. The second side is devoted to short poems and Nash's own poetic version of The Nutcracker Suite.
